PUBLISHER'S NOTICE.

DEEMING the following work essential to the increasing business interests of New Jersey, the publisher has ventured to issue it; and feels flattered with being the originator of a work that has met with such a favorable reception by the citizens of this State, and adjoining cities.

Although not issued at as early a date as promised, yet the size of the work has been increased, by the addition of much matter that cannot prove otherwise than useful to the community at large.

The plan of arranging the work is entirely original with the publisher, and he hopes, on examination, it will meet with the approbation of the public generally.

The attending difficulty in making the orthography of proper names, and other matter composing a Directory, induced the publisher to employ such agents as were capable of the task, and have them visit all the towns and villages throughout the State, and obtain, personally, from those conducting business, the name, business, &c.; yet the publisher would not say the work is altogether free from mistakes, (these are almost unavoidable in a work of this nature,) but feels convinced it is sufficiently definite to serve as a matter of present and future reference.

In addition to the Business Directory of the State, he has added the Constitutions of the United States and State of New Jersey, together with the officers of the government of New Jersey, also those of the United States, both foreign and domestic.

STACY B. KIRKBRIDE, JR.

CONSTITUTION

OF THE

---

WE, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defence, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and to our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

ARTICLE I.

SEC. I. All legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives.

SEC. II. The House of Representatives shall be composed of members chosen every second year by the people of the several states, and the electors in each state shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the State Legislature.

No person shall be a representative who shall not have attained to the age of twenty-five years, and been seven years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state in which he shall be chosen.

Representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several states which may be included within this union, according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole number of free persons, including those bound to service for a term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed, three-fifths of all other persons. The actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the Congress of the United States, and within every subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as they shall by law direct. The number of representatives shall not exceed one for every thirty thousand, but each state shall have at least one representative; and until such enumeration shall be made, the state of New Hampshire shall be entitled to choose three, Massachusetts eight, Rhode Island and Providence Plantations one, Connecticut five,

New York six, New Jersey four, Pennsylvania eight, Delaware one, Maryland six, Virginia ten, North Carolina five, South Carolina five, and Georgia three.

When vacancies happen in the representation from any state, the executive authority thereof shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies.

The House of Representatives shall choose their Speaker and other officers; and shall have the sole power of impeachment.

SEC. III. The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each state, chosen by the Legislature thereof, for six years; and each senator shall have one vote.

Immediately after they shall be assembled in consequence of the first election, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three classes. The seats of the senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year, of the second class at the expiration of the fourth year, and of the third class at the expiration of the sixth year, so that one-third may be chosen every second year; and if vacancies happen by resignation, or otherwise, during the recess of the Legislature of any state, the executive thereof may make temporary appointments until the next meeting of the Legislature, which shall then fill such vacancies.

No person shall be a senator who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years, and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state for which he shall be chosen.

The Vice President of the United States shall be President of the Senate, but shall have no vote, unless they be equally divided.

The Senate shall choose their other officers, and also a president pro tempore, in the absence of the Vice President, or when he shall exercise the office of President of the United States.

The Senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments: when sitting for that purpose, they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the President of the United States is tried, the Chief Justice shall preside: and no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.

Judgment in cases of impeachment shall not extend further than to removal from office, and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust or profit under the United States: but the party convicted shall nevertheless be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment and punishment, according to law.

SEC. IV. The times, places and manner of holding elections for senators and representatives, shall be prescribed in each state by the Legislature thereof; but the Congress may at any time, by law, make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of choosing senators.

The Congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meeting shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day.

SEC. V. Each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of its own members, and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner, and under such penalties as each house may provide.

Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member.

Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, excepting such parts as may in their judgment require secrecy; and the yeas and nays of the members of either house on any question shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the journal.

Neither house, during the session of Congress, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be sitting.

SEC. VI. The senators and representatives shall receive a compensation for their services, to be ascertained by law, and paid out of the treasury of the United States. They shall, in all cases, except treason, felony and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate in either house, they shall not be questioned in any other place.

No senator or representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States, which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased during such time; and no person holding any office under the United States, shall be a member of either house during his continuance in office.

SEC. VII. All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the House of Representatives; but the Senate may propose or concur with amendments as on other bills.

Every bill which shall have passed the House of Representatives and the Senate, shall, before it become a law, be presented to the President of the United States; if he approve he shall sign it, but if not he shall return it, with his objections, to that house in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of that house, it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the President within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Congress by their adjournment prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law.

Every order, resolution or vote, to which the concurrence of the Senate and House of Representatives may be necessary (except on a question of adjournment) shall be presented to the President of the United States; and before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him, or being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the Senate and House of Representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill.

SEC. VIII. The Congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises, to pay the debts and provide for the common defence and general welfare of the United States ; but all duties, imposts and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States ;

To borrow money on the credit of the United States ;

To regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several states, and with the Indian tribes ;

To establish an uniform rule of naturalization, and uniform laws on the subject of bankruptcies throughout the United States ;

To coin money, regulate the value thereof, and of foreign coin, and fix the standard of weights and measures ;

To provide for the punishment of counterfeiting the securities and current coin of the United States ;

To establish post offices and post roads ;

To promote the progress of science and useful arts, by securing for limited times to authors and inventors the exclusive right to their respective writings and discoveries ;

To constitute tribunals inferior to the supreme court ;

To define and punish piracies and felonies committed on the high seas, and offences against the law of nations ;

To declare war, grant letters of marque and reprisal, and make rules concerning captures on land and water ;

To raise and support armies, but no appropriation of money to that use shall be for a longer term than two years ;

To provide and maintain a navy ;

To make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces ;

To provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections and repel invasions ;

To provide for organizing, arming, and disciplining the militia, and for governing such part of them as may be employed in the service of the United States, reserving to the states respectively, the appointment of the officers, and the authority of training the militia according to the discipline prescribed by Congress ;

To exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever, over such district (not exceeding ten miles square) as may, by cession of particular states, and the acceptance of Congress, become the seat of the government of the United States, and to exercise like authority over all places purchased by the consent of the Legislature of the state in which the same shall be, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dock yards, and other needful buildings ; and

To make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers, and all other powers vested by this constitution in the government of the United States, or in any department or officer thereof.

SEC. IX. The migration or importation of such persons as any of the states now existing shall think proper to admit, shall not be prohibited by the Congress prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight, but a tax or duty may be imposed on such importation, not exceeding ten dollars for each person.

The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless when in cases of rebellion or invasion the public safety may require it.

No bill of attainder or ex post facto law shall be passed.

No capitation, or other direct tax, shall be laid, unless in proportion to the census or enumeration herein before directed to be taken.

No tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any state.

No preference shall be given by any regulation of commerce or revenue to the ports of one state over those of another ; nor shall vessels bound to, or from, one state, be obliged to enter, clear, or pay duties in another.

No money shall be drawn from the treasury, but in consequence of appropriations made by law ; and a regular statement and account of the receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time.

No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States ; and no person holding any office of profit or trust under them, shall, without the consent of the Congress, accept of any present, emolument, office, or title, of any kind whatever, from any king, prince, or foreign state.

SEC. X. No state shall enter into any treaty, alliance, or confederation ; grant letters of marque and reprisal ; coin money ; emit bills of credit ; make any thing but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts ; pass any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts, or grant any title of nobility.

No state shall, without the consent of the Congress, lay any imposts or duties on imports or exports, except what may be absolutely necessary for executing its inspection laws ; and the nett produce of all duties and imposts, laid by any state on imports or exports, shall be for the use of the treasury of the United States ; and all such laws shall be subject to the revision and control of the Congress.

No state shall, without the consent of Congress, lay any duty of tonnage, keep troops, or ships of war in time of peace, enter into any agreement or compact with another state, or with a foreign power, or engage in war, unless actually invaded, or in such imminent danger as will not admit of delay.

ARTICLE II.

SEC. I. The executive power shall be vested in a President of the United States of America. He shall hold his office during the term of four years, and, together with the Vice President, chosen for the same term, be elected as follows :

Each state shall appoint, in such manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors, equal to the whole number of senators and representatives to which the state may be entitled in the Congress: but no senator or representative, or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States, shall be appointed an elector.

The electors shall meet in their respective states, and vote by ballot for two persons, of whom one at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same state with themselves. And they shall make a list of all the persons voted for, and of the number of votes for each; which list they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the President of the Senate. The President of the Senate shall, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be the President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if there be more than one who have such majority, and have an equal number of votes, then the House of Representatives shall immediately choose by ballot one of them for President; and if no person have a majority, then from the five highest on the list, the said House shall in like manner choose the President. But in choosing the President, the votes shall be taken by states, the representation from each state having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the states, and a majority of all the states shall be necessary to a choice. In every case, after the choice of the President, the person having the greatest number of votes of the electors shall be the Vice President. But if there should remain two or more who have equal votes, the Senate shall choose from them by ballot the Vice President. (Altered by Amendment XII.)

The Congress may determine the time of choosing the electors, and the day on which they shall give their votes; which day shall be the same throughout the United States.

No person except a natural born citizen, or a citizen of the United States, at the time of the adoption of this constitution, shall be eligible to the office of President; neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained to the age of thirty-five years, and been fourteen years a resident within the United States.

In case of the removal of the President from office, or of his death, resignation or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the Vice President, and the Congress may by law provide for the case of removal, death, resignation or inability, both of the President and Vice President, declaring what officer shall then act as President, and such officer shall act accordingly, until the disability be removed, or a President shall be elected.

The President shall, at stated times, receive for his services a compensation, which shall neither be increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected, and he shall not receive within that period any other emolument from the United States, or any of them.

Before he enter on the execution of his office, he shall take the following oath or affirmation:—"I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States."

SEC. II. The President shall be commander-in-chief of the army and navy of the United States, and of the militia of the several states, when called into the actual service of the United States; he may require the opinion, in writing, of the principal officer in each of the executive departments, upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices, and he shall have power to grant reprieves and pardons for offences against the United States, except in cases of impeachment.

He shall have power, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the Senators present concur; and he shall nominate, and by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, shall appoint ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, judges of the supreme court, and all other officers of the United States, whose appointments are not herein otherwise provided for, and which shall be established by law: but the Congress may by law vest the appointment of such inferior officers, as they think proper, in the President alone, in the courts of law, or in the heads of departments.

The President shall have power to fill up all vacancies that may happen during the recess of the Senate, by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of their next session.

SEC. III. He shall from time to time give to the Congress information of the state of the union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient; he may, on extraordinary occasions, convene both houses, or either of them, and in case of disagreement between them, with respect to the time of adjournment, he may adjourn them to such time as he shall think proper; he shall receive ambassadors and other public ministers; he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and shall commission all the officers of the United States.

SEC. IV. The President, Vice President, and all civil officers of the United States, shall be removed from office on impeachment for, and conviction of, treason, bribery, or other high crimes or misdemeanors.

ARTICLE III.

SEC. I. The judicial power of the United States shall be vested in one supreme court, and in such inferior courts as the Congress may, from time to time, ordain and establish. The judges, both of the supreme and inferior courts, shall hold their offices during good behavior, and shall, at stated times, receive for their services, a compensation, which shall not be diminished during their continuance in office.

SEC. II. The judicial power shall extend to all cases in law and equity, arising under this constitution, the laws of the United States, and treaties made, or which shall be made, under their authority; to all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers, and consuls ; to all cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction ; to controversies to which the United States shall be a party ; to controversies between two or more states ; between a state and citizens of another state ; between citizens of different states, between citizens of the same state, claiming lands under grants of different states ; and between a state, or the citizens thereof, and foreign states, citizens or subjects.

In all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, and those in which a state shall be party, the supreme court shall have original jurisdiction. In all the other cases before mentioned, the supreme court shall have appellate jurisdiction, both as to law and fact, with such exceptions, and under such regulations as the Congress shall make.

The trial of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury ; and such trial shall be held in the state where the said crimes shall have been committed ; but when not committed within any state, the trial shall be at such place or places as the Congress may, by law, have directed.

SEC. III. Treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason, unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.

The Congress shall have power to declare the punishment of treason, but no attainder of treason shall work corruption of blood, or forfeiture, except during the life of the person attainted.

ARTICLE IV.

SEC. I. Full faith and credit shall be given in each state, to the public acts, records, and judicial proceedings of every other state. And the Congress may, by general laws, prescribe the manner in which such acts, records, and proceedings shall be proved, and the effect thereof.

SEC. II. The citizens of each state shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several states.

A person charged in any state with treason, felony, or other crime, who shall flee from justice, and be found in another state, shall, on demand of the executive authority of the state from which he fled, be delivered up, to be removed to the state having jurisdiction of the crime.

No person held to service or labor in one state, under the laws thereof, escaping into another, shall, in consequence of any law or regulation therein, be discharged from such service or labor, but shall be delivered up, on claim of the party to whom such service or labor may be due.

SEC. III. New states may be admitted, by the Congress, into this union ; but no new state shall be formed or erected within the jurisdiction of any other state ; nor any state be formed by the junction of two or more states, or parts of states, without the consent of the Legislatures of the states concerned, as well as of the Congress.

The Congress shall have power to dispose of, and make all needful rules and regulations, respecting the territory or other property belonging to the United States; and nothing in this constitution shall be so construed as to prejudice any claims of the United States, or of any particular state.

SEC. IV. The United States shall guarantee to every state in this union, a republican form of government, and shall protect each of them against invasion; and on application of the Legislature, or of the executive, (when the Legislature cannot be convened,) against domestic violence.

ARTICLE V.

The Congress, whenever two-thirds of both houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this constitution, or, on the application of the Legislatures of two-thirds of the several states, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which, in either case, shall be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of this constitution, when ratified by the Legislatures of three-fourths of the several states, or by conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the Congress; provided, that no amendment, which may be made prior to the year one-thousand eight hundred and eight, shall in any manner affect the first and fourth clauses in the ninth section of the first article; and that no state, without its consent, shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the Senate.

ARTICLE VI.

All debts contracted, and engagements entered into, before the adoption of this constitution, shall be as valid against the United States, under this constitution, as under the confederation.

This constitution, and the laws of the United States, which shall be made in pursuance thereof; and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land; and the judges in every state shall be bound thereby; any thing in the constitution or laws of any state to the contrary, notwithstanding.

The senators and representatives before mentioned, and the members of the several State Legislatures, and all executive and judicial officers, both of the United States and of the several states, shall be bound, by oath or affirmation, to support this constitution; but no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States.

ARTICLE VII.

The ratification of the conventions of nine states shall be sufficient for the establishment of this constitution between the states so ratifying the same.

Done in convention, by the unanimous consent of the states present, the seventeenth day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty-seven, and of the independence of the United States of America, the twelfth. # AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES,

ENACTED ACCORDING TO THE PROVISIONS OF THE FIFTH ARTICLE OF THE FOREGOING CONSTITUTION.

ARTICLE I.

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances.

ARTICLE II.

A well regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed.

ARTICLE III.

No soldier shall, in time of peace, be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner: nor in time of war, but in a manner to be prescribed by law.

ARTICLE IV.

The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated; and no warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized.

ARTICLE V.

No person shall be held to answer for a capital or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a grand jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia, when in actual service, in time of war or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offence to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled, in any criminal case, to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation.

ARTICLE VI.

In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the state and district wherein the crime shall have been committed; which district shall have been previously ascertained by law; and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor; and to have the assistance of counsel for his defence.

ARTICLE VII.

In suits of common law, where the value in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, the right of trial by jury shall be preserved; and no fact tried by a jury shall be otherwise re-examined in any court of the United States, than according to the rules of the common law.

ARTICLE VIII.

Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted.

ARTICLE IX.

The enumeration in the constitution, of certain rights, shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people.

ARTICLE X.

The powers not delegated to the United States by the constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states respectively, or to the people.

ARTICLE XI.

The judicial power of the United States shall not be construed to extend to any suit in law or equity, commenced or prosecuted against one of the United States by citizens of another state, or by citizens or subjects of any foreign state.

ARTICLE XII.

The electors shall meet in their respective states, and vote by ballot for President and Vice President, one of whom, at least, shall not be an inhabitant of the same state with themselves; they shall name in their ballots the person voted for as President, and in distinct ballots the person voted for as Vice President; and they shall make distinct lists of all persons voted for as President, and of all persons voted for as Vice President, and of the number of votes for each, which lists they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the President of the Senate; the President of the Senate shall, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted: the person having the greatest number of votes for President, shall be the President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if no person have such majority, then from the persons having the highest numbers, not exceeding three, on the list of those voted for as President, the House of Representatives shall choose immediately, by ballot, the President. But in choosing the President, the votes shall be taken by states, the representation from each state having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the states, and a majority of all the states shall be necessary to a choice. And if the House of Representatives shall not choose a President whenever the right of choice shall devolve upon them, before the fourth day of March next following, then the Vice President shall act as President, as in the case of the death or other constitutional disability of the President.

The person having the greatest number of votes as Vice President, shall be the Vice President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if no person have a majority, then from the two highest numbers on the list, the Senate shall choose the Vice President: a quorum for the purpose shall consist of two-thirds of the whole number of senators, and a majority of the whole number shall be necessary to a choice.

But no person constitutionally ineligible to the office of President, shall be eligible to that of Vice President of the United States.

NOTES.

The constitution of the United States went into operation on Wednesday, March 4th, 1789.
5 Wheat. 420.

The constitution of the United States being the paramount law of the whole Union, restrains the powers of the state governments:

First. In those cases where an exclusive power is expressly granted to Congress, as in the case of exclusive legislation over places ceded for forts, &c. 2 Mason, 69; 5 Mason, 356; 5 Wheat. 317.

Secondly. Where there is a direct incompatibility in the exercise of a power by the states, which has been granted to the United States; as in the cases of the power to establish a uniform rule of naturalization, and the exercise of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction. 1 Wheat. 304; 2 Wheat. 269; 5 Wheat. 49.

Thirdly. Where the exercise of the power is expressly prohibited to the states; as the power to coin money, emit bills of credit, make any thing but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts, pass any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts. Art. I., Sec. 10.

Fourthly. Where the law of the state attempts to impede or control the lawful institutions or measures of the general government; as to interfere with the judgment, process or proceedings of the United States courts or officers. 2 Cranch, 397; 5 Cranch, 115; 7 Cranch, 279; 6 Wheat. 598; or to tax the United States Bank. 4 Wheat. 316; or United States stock. 2 Peters, 449.

In all the above cases the powers of the national government are exclusive, and the laws of the states are absolutely void.

Fifthly. Where a power is granted to Congress, not in its nature exclusive, and a law passed by virtue of such power, comes into a direct and manifest collision with a state law, the former being paramount, the latter must yield, so far, and so far only, as the incompatibility exists; as in the cases of bankrupt laws, tax laws, laws regulating commerce, &c. In these cases the powers of the two governments are concurrent, and the state law is binding, in the absence of any incompatible law of Congress. 4 Wheat. 193; 11 Peters 103.

A state cannot issue certificates, receivable in payment of taxes, and by the state officers for salaries and fees, although not made a legal tender. Being paper plainly intended to circulate through the community as money, they are bills of credit, within the meaning of the constitution. Instruments issued by the state, binding it to pay money at a future day, for services actually received, or for money borrowed for present use, would not come within the prohibition. 4 Peters, 410; 8 Peters, 40.

The notes of a bank, established by the state, belonging wholly to it, and the officers and directors of which are appointed by it, are not bills of credit within the constitution. 11 Peters, 259.

The prohibition to pass ex post facto laws, applies only to laws of a penal or criminal nature.

An ex post facto law, is one which renders an act punishable in a manner in which it was not punishable when it was committed, either by a change of the punishment or of the rules of evidence applicable to it. 3 Dall. 386 ; 6 Cranch, 138.

It is no objection to a state law that it is retrospective, or that it divests rights previously vested, provided it do not impair the obligation of a contract. 2 Peters, 380 ; 8 Peters, 88.

A legislature which passes a law authorising the sale of state land, cannot afterwards by repealing the law, take away the purchaser's right under the sale. The law granting the right is a contract which cannot afterwards be impaired. 6 Cranch, 87.

Where the legislature of New Jersey declared by law, that certain lands to be thereafter purchased for the use of Indians, should not be subject to any tax, it was held that this was a contract, and that the land, although afterwards sold by the Indians, could not be taxed. 9 Cranch, 43.

A state legislature cannot repeal a statute creating a private corporation, or confirming to them property, nor can it revoke a grant of property. Corporations existing only for public purposes, as counties, towns, cities, &c., may be changed or taken away, the property being secured for the use of those for whom, and at whose expense, it was originally purchased. 9 Cranch, 43 ; 4 Wheat. 518.

The prohibition to pass laws impairing compacts, embraces all contracts executed and executory, and whether between individuals, or between a state and individuals, it never depends upon the extent of the change which the law effects in the contract. Any deviation from its terms, by postponing or accelerating the period of performance which it prescribes, imposing conditions not expressed in the contract, or dispensing with the performance of those which are expressed, however minute or apparently immaterial in their effect upon the contract, or upon any part or parcel of it, impairs its obligation. 8 Wheat. 1.

The states may pass statutes of limitation or laws discharging debtors from imprisonment, or other laws which relate to the remedy, and not to the obligation of a contract. But a law releasing the debtor from all future obligation to pay, is a law impairing the contract and void. 1 Harr. 197 ; 6 Wheat. 122 ; 12 Wheat. 370.

But a state bankrupt or insolvent law which discharges debts contracted subsequent to its passage, does not impair the contract, and is valid. A discharge, however, under such a law, is binding only in the state where it is granted. 12 Wheat. 213 ; 6 Peters, 348 ; 5 Hal. 208.

State laws requiring deeds to be recorded, or to be void as against younger deeds, passed after the making of the deeds, and limitation acts, affecting existing rights of action, do not impair the obligation of contracts, and are therefore constitutional. 3 Peters, 280.

A charter granted to a bank, is a contract, and cannot therefore be taken away or impaired. But the right to be exempt from taxation, does not so necessarily flow from the charter, as to be implied as a part of the contract ; a law taxing banks is constitutional. 4 Peters, 514.

A state law incorporating a bridge or turnpike company, and containing no exclusive grant, does not imply a contract on the part of the state not to authorize another bridge or turnpike, between the same places. Where a company was incorporated and built a toll bridge over Charles River at Boston, a law authorizing a free bridge so near to it as to take away all its tolls, was held not to be contrary to the constitution. 11 Peters, 420.

Statutes appointing commissioners to sell the lands of an individual debtor of the state, in satisfaction of liens and judgments held by the state, are not unconstitutional. 7 Peters, 469.

Where a deed was made by a man and his wife, for land of the wife, which was not properly acknowledged so as by the existing laws of the state to convey the wife's title, and after the wife's death her heirs recovered the land, and then the Legislature passed a law curing such defective acknowledgments, it was held that such a law did not impair any contract ; and, although retrospective, was constitutional ; and the persons holding the title under the wife's deed, recovered the land. 8 Peters, 88.

No state tribunal can interfere with seizures of property, under the laws of the United States. If the officer who seizes, or the court which awards the process, has jurisdiction of the subject matter, then the inquiry into the validity of the seizure, belongs exclusively to the federal courts. But if there be no jurisdiction in the instance in which it is asserted, as if a marshal of the United States, under an execution in favor of the U. S. against A., seize the property of B., then the state courts have jurisdiction and trespass, or replevin may be maintained against the marshal, in them. 2 Wheat. 1; 6 Hal. 370.

A state court cannot issue a mandamus to an officer of the United States. 6 Wheat. 598. But a habeas corpus may be issued by the state courts, to a United States' officer. 2 South. 555; 10 John. 328.

The acts of the Legislature of New York, granting the exclusive privilege to Livingston and Fulton to navigate the waters of that state with steam boats, were held to be unconstitutional and void, as being repugnant to the power given to Congress to regulate commerce, so far as those acts went to prohibit vessels licensed under the laws of the United States from navigating the waters of New York. 9 Wheat. 1.

A state law requiring every importer of goods, by wholesale, bale or package, to take out a license from the state, and pay for it, was held to be in conflict with the laws of Congress regulating commerce, and repugnant to the prohibition against a state to lay an impost or duty on imports or exports, and therefore void. 12 Wheat. 419.

A law of a state may authorize a dam to be made across a navigable creek, up which the tide flows, in the absence of any law of Congress interfering with such a power in the state. 2 Peters, 245.

The grant to Congress to regulate commerce on the navigable waters of the several states, contains no cession of territory, or of public or private property; the states may by law regulate the use of fisheries and oyster beds within their territorial limits, though upon navigable waters, provided the free use of the waters for purposes of navigation and commerce be not interrupted. 4 Wash. Cir. Rep. 371.

The states may pass laws requiring the masters of vessels, within a certain period after their arrival within the states, to make a report of the passengers, and may regulate the terms on which they shall be admitted into the state, such laws not being a regulation of commerce, but like inspection and health laws, are regulations of the internal police of the state. 11 Peters, 102.

That section of the constitution, which declares that citizens of each state shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several states, must be restricted to those privileges and immunities, which are in their nature fundamental: such as the right of one citizen to pass through or reside in any other state for the purposes of trade, agriculture, &c.; to claim the benefit of the writ of habeas corpus; to institute and maintain actions of any kind, in the courts of the state; to take, hold and dispose of property, either real or personal; and an exemption from higher taxes or impositions than are paid by the other citizens of the state: it does not extend so far as to prevent the states from prohibiting the citizens of other states from catching fish or oysters in their waters. 4 Wash. Cir. Rep. 371.

Congress has the right to provide for the organization and discipline of the militia, reserving to the states the appointment of the officers and the training of the militia according to the discipline prescribed by Congress, and so far as Congress exercises this right, its laws supersede the state laws. The power to govern such part of the militia as may be employed in the service of the United States, is exclusively vested in Congress; but the state laws may provide that court martials constituted by them, shall enforce the penalties prescribed by Congress. 5 Wheat. 1.

It belongs exclusively to the President of the United States, to decide when the exigency has arisen, which authorizes the militia to be called out, agreeably to the constitution, to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections, and repel invasions; and his requisition upon the Governor of a state is in legal intendment an order, which will justify the call, and expose the militia men to the penalties prescribed by the act of Congress, for disobedience. 12 Wheat. 19.

The provisions contained in the amendments, declaring that private property shall not be taken for public use, without just compensation, preserving the right of trial by jury, &c., are limitations on the powers of the general government, and are not applicable to the legislation of the states. 7 Peters, 243.

When the question comes before a circuit court of the United States, whether a state law is repugnant to the constitution of the state whose Legislature passed it, that court decides it the same as a court of the state; but the supreme court of the United States, upon a writ of error to a state court, has no jurisdiction to declare a state law void on account of its being contrary to the state constitution; that court, in such a case, can decide nothing but the question whether the state law is repugnant to the constitution or treaties of the United States. 3 Peters, 230; 8 Peters, 88.

The courts of the United States have exclusive jurisdiction of suits against foreign ministers and consuls; they cannot be sued in the state courts. 7 Peters, 276; 1 Gr. 107.

The supreme court of the United States has jurisdiction of a suit brought by one state of the Union against another, to determine the rights of territory and jurisdiction of such states. 12 Peters, 657.

SCINTILLATIONS FROM HISTORY

New Jersey was discovered in the year 1498, by Sebastian Cabot, who, under the patronage of Henry VII., King of England, made a voyage with a company of three hundred men, in the hope of finding a north-west passage to India. Having explored the coast of Labrador to Florida, he was compelled to return to England for want of provision.

In August, 1609, Henry Hudson, an Englishman, in command of a ship called the Half Moon, and in service of a Dutch East India Company, entered Delaware Bay with a view of effecting a passage through the American continent. Finding shoal water, he abandoned the project, and followed the eastern shore of New Jersey as far as Sandy Hook, where he anchored his ship on the 3d of September. On the 5th of September, Hudson sent a portion of his crew exploring and sounding the waters now called the Horse Shoe. On the 11th of the same month, he explored the river, now bearing his name, as far as Albany; but soon returned and proceeded to Europe.

The exact date of the first European settlement of New Jersey, is difficult to ascertain, but is generally believed to have commenced in 1618, at Bergen, by Danes or Norwegians. In 1623, there was a fort built on the eastern shore of the Delaware, called Fort Nassau. It was built by Cornelius Jacobse Mey; but was soon deserted. Mey entered Delaware Bay in command of a ship owned by a company in Holland, called "the Privileged West India Company;" he named the cape which still bears his name, (Cape May.)

In 1664, the Duke of York conveyed to Sir George Carteret and Lord Berkley, the territory which now forms a portion of the State; and in honor to Carteret, it received the name of "NOVA CESAREA, or NEW JERSEY;" he having previously been Governor of Jersey Island, and stood in its defence during the civil war. Prior to the grant of the Duke of York, there had three Swedish and four Dutch Governors presided at different periods over what was then called New Netherlands.

SWEDISH GOVERNORS.

1642—John Printz. 1654—John Papegoi. 1656—John Risingh.

DUTCH GOVERNORS.

1656—Johannes Paul Jaquet. 1657—Peter Aldricks. 1657—Hinjossa.
1658—Wm. Beekman.

ENGLISH GOVERNORS.

After the grant of the Duke of York, and prior to the division of the colony into East and West Jersey:—1664—Richard Nichols. 1665—Philip Carteret. 1670—James Carteret. 1672—John Berry. 1674—Philip Carteret.

In 1676, the province was divided into East and West Jersey. Considerable portion of West Jersey was purchased by FRIENDS in Yorkshire and London. The following is a list of the Governors, from the division of the colony, until the surrender of the two provinces to the crown, on the 17th of April, 1702.

EAST JERSEY.

1676—Philip Carteret.
1683—Robert Barclay.
1683—*Thomas Rudyard, D. G.
1683—Gawen Laurie, D. G.
1685—Lord Neil Campbell.
1687—Andrew Hamilton, D. G.

WEST JERSEY.

1677—Edward Billinge.
1680—Samuel Jennings, D. G.
1683—Samuel Jennings.
1684—Thomas Olive.
1685—John Skeine.
1685—Daniel Cox.
1685—Edward Hunloke, D. G.

In 1692, Andrew Hamilton became Governor of both provinces.

After the right of government was transferred to the crown, Queen Anne reunited East and West Jersey into one province, and placed her kinsman, Lord Cornbury, Governor of this as well as New York.

Governors from the transfer of the right of government until the revolution.

1703—Lord Cornbury.
1708—Lord Lovelace.
1709—Richard Ingolsby.
1709—Wm. Pinhorn.
1710—Robert Hunter.
1720—Wm. Burnett.
1728—John Montgomery.
1731—Lewis Morris.
1732—Wm. Cosby,
1736—John Anderson.

1736—John Hamilton.
1738—Lewis Morris.
1746—John Hamilton.
1747—John Reading.
1747—Jonathan Belcher,
1757—John Reading.
1758—Francis Bernard.
1760—Thomas Boone.
1762—Josiah Hardy.
1763—Wm. Franklin.

* Those marked D. G. were deputy Governors.

Whilst Governor Franklin still remained in office, independence was declared ; and on the 27th of August, 1776, the first independent legislature of New Jersey convened at Princeton ; on the 31st of the same month, Wm. Livingston was chosen Governor of the State.

Governors from the revolution, until the formation of the new constitution in 1844.

1776—Wm. Livingston.

1794—Wm. Paterson.

1794—Richard Howell.

1801—Joseph Bloomfield.

1812—Aaron Ogden.

1813—Wm. S. Pennington.

1815—Mahlon Dickerson,

1817—I. H. Williamson.

1829—Garret D. Wall, (resigned.)

1829—Peter D. Vroom.

1832—Samuel L. Southard.

1833—Elias P. Seely.

1833—Peter D. Vroom.

1836—Philemon Dickerson.

1837—Wm. Pennington.

1843—Daniel Haines.

Previous to the formation of the new constitution, all Governors acted as Chancellors also ; but, since then, it has been recognized as a separate office.

Governors from the formation of the new constitution up to the present time.

CONSTITUTION.

We, the people of the State of New Jersey, grateful to Almighty God for the civil and religious liberty which He hath so long permitted us to enjoy, and looking to Him for a blessing upon our endeavors to secure and transmit the same unimpaired to succeeding generations, do ordain and establish this Constitution.

ARTICLE I.

RIGHTS AND PRIVILEGES.

1. All men are, by nature, free and independent, and have certain natural and unalienable rights; among which are those of enjoying and defending life and liberty, acquiring, possessing and protecting property, and of pursuing and obtaining safety and happiness.

2. All political power is inherent in the people. Government is instituted for the protection, security and benefit of the people; and they have a right at all times to alter or reform the same, whenever the public good may require it.

3. No person shall be deprived of the inestimable privilege of worshipping Almighty God in a manner agreeable to the dictates of his own conscience; nor under any pretence, whatever, be compelled to attend any place of worship contrary to his faith and judgment; nor shall any person be obliged to pay tithes, taxes, or other rates for building or repairing any church or churches, place or places of worship, or for the maintenance of any minister or ministry contrary to what he believes to be right, or has deliberately and voluntarily engaged to perform.

4. There shall be no establishment of one religious sect in preference to another. No religious test shall be required as a qualification for any office or public trust; and no person shall be denied the enjoyment of any civil right, merely on account of his religious principles.

5. Every person may freely speak, write, and publish his sentiments on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of that right. No law shall be passed to restrain or abridge the liberty of the press; in all prosecutions or indictments for libel, the truth may be given in evidence to the jury; if it shall appear to the jury, that the matter charged as libelous is true, and was published with good motives and justifiable ends, the party shall be acquitted; and the jury shall have the right to determine the law and the fact.

6. The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated; and no warrant shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, the papers and things to be seized.

7. The right of trial by jury shall remain inviolate; but the Legislature may authorize the trial of civil suits, when the matter in dispute does not exceed fifty dollars, by a jury of six men.

8. In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall have the right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury; to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of counsel in his defence.

9. No person shall be held to answer for a criminal offence, unless on the presentment or indictment of a grand jury, except in cases of impeachment, or in cases cognizable by justices of the peace, or arising in the army and navy, or in the militia, when in actual service in time of war or public danger.

10. No person shall, after acquittal, be tried for the same offence. All persons shall, before conviction, be bailable by sufficient sureties, except for capital offences, when the proof is evident or presumption great.

11. The privileges of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless in case of rebellion or invasion, the public safety may require it.

12. The military shall be in strict subordination to the civil power.

13. No soldier shall, in time of peace, be quartered in any house, without the consent of the owner, nor in time of war, except in a manner prescribed by law.

14. Treason against the State shall consist only in levying war against it, or in adhering to its enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason, unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act on confession in open court.

15. Excessive bail shall not be required; excessive fines shall not be imposed; and cruel and inhuman punishment shall not be inflicted.

16. Private property shall not be taken for public use without just compensation; but land may be taken for public highways as heretofore, until the Legislature shall direct compensation to be made.

17. No person shall be imprisoned for debt in any action, or on any judgment founded upon contract, unless in cases of fraud; nor shall any person be imprisoned for a militia fine in time of peace.

18. The people have the right freely to assemble together to consult for the common good, to make known their opinions to their representatives, and to petition for redress of grievances.

19. This enumeration of rights and privileges shall not be construed to impair or deny others retained by the people.

ARTICLE II.

RIGHT OF SUFFRAGE.

1. Every white male citizen of the United States, of the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a resident of this State one year, and of the county in which he claims his vote, five months next before the election, shall be entitled to vote for all officers that now are, or hereafter may be elective by the people; provided that no person in the military, naval or marine service of the United States shall be considered a resident of this State, by being stationed in any garrison, barrack, or military or naval place or station within this State; and no pauper, idiot, insane person, or person convicted of crime which now excludes him from being a witness, unless pardoned or restored by law to the right of suffrage, shall enjoy the right of an elector.

2. The Legislature may pass laws to deprive persons of the right of suffrage who shall be convicted of bribery at elections.

ARTICLE III.

DISTRIBUTION OF THE POWERS OF GOVERNMENT.

1. The powers of government shall be divided into three distinct departments : the legislative, executive and judicial ; and no person or persons belonging to, or constituting one of these departments, shall exercise any of the powers properly belonging to either of the others, except as herein expressly provided.

ARTICLE IV.

LEGISLATIVE.

SEC. I.—1. The legislative power shall be vested in a Senate and General Assembly.

2. No person shall be a member of the Senate, who shall not have attained the age of thirty years, and have been a citizen and inhabitant of the State for four years, and of the county for which he shall be chosen one year next before his election ; and no person shall be a member of the General Assembly, who shall not have attained the age of twenty-one years, and have been a citizen and inhabitant of the State for two years, and of the county for which he shall be chosen one year next before his election ; provided, that no person shall be eligible as a member of either House of the Legislature, who shall not be entitled to the right of suffrage.

3. Members of the Senate and General Assembly shall be elected yearly, and every year on the second Tuesday in October ; and the two houses shall meet separately, on the second Tuesday in January next after the said day of election ; at which time of meeting, the legislative year shall commence ; but the time of holding such election may be altered by the Legislature.

SEC. II.—1. The Senate shall be composed of one senator from each county in the State, elected by the legal voters of the counties, respectively, for three years.

2. As soon as the Senate shall meet after the first election to be held in pursuance of this Constitution, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three classes. The seats of the senators of the first class, shall be vacated at the expiration of the first year ; of the second class, at the expiration of the second year ; and of the third class, at the expiration of the third year ; so that one class may be elected every year ; and if vacancies happen, by resignation or otherwise, the persons elected to supply such vacancies, shall be elected for the unexpired terms only.

SEC. III.—1. The General Assembly shall be composed of members annually elected by the legal voters of the counties respectively, who shall be apportioned among the said counties as nearly as may be according to the number of inhabitants. The present apportionment shall continue until the next census of the United States shall have been taken, and an apportionment of members of General Assembly shall be made by the Legislature at its first session after the next, and every subsequent enumeration or census ; and when made, shall remain unaltered until another enumeration shall have been taken ; provided that each county shall at all times be entitled to one member ; and the whole number of members shall never exceed sixty.

SEC. IV.—1. Each House shall direct writs of election for supplying vacancies, occasioned by death, resignation or otherwise ; but, if vacancies occur during the recess of the Legislature, the writs may be issued by the Governor, under such regulations as may be prescribed by law.

2. Each House shall be the judge of elections, returns and qualifications of its own members, and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business ; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, in such a manner, and under such penalties as each House may provide.

3. Each House shall choose its own officers, determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and with the concurrence of two-thirds, may expel a member.

4. Each House shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same ; and the yeas and nays of the members of either House on any question, shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the journal.

5. Neither House, during the session of the Legislature, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two Houses shall be sitting.

6. All bills and joint resolutions shall be read three times in each House, before the final passage thereof ; and no bill or joint resolution shall pass, unless there be a majority of all the members of each body personally present, and agreeing thereto ; and the yeas and nays of members voting on such final passage shall be entered on the journal.

7. Members of the Senate and General Assembly shall receive a compensation for their services, to be ascertained by law, and paid out of the treasury of the State, which compensation shall not exceed three dollars per day, for a period of forty days from the commencement of the session ; and shall not exceed the sum of one dollar and fifty cents per day for the remainder of the session. When convened in extra session by the Governor, they shall receive such sum as shall be fixed for the first forty days of the ordinary session. They shall, also, receive the sum of one dollar for every ten miles they shall travel, in going to and returning from their place of meeting, on the most usual route. The President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Assembly, shall, in virtue of their offices, receive an additional compensation equal to one-third of their per diem allowance as members.

8. Members of the Senate and of the General Assembly, shall, in all cases except treason, felony, and breach of peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the sitting of their respective Houses, and going to and returning from the same ; and for any speech or debate in either House, they shall not be questioned in any other place.

SEC. V.—1. No member of the Senate or General Assembly, shall, during the time for which he is elected, be nominated or appointed by the Governor, or by the Legislature in joint meeting, to any civil office under the authority of this State, which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof shall have increased during such time.

2. If any member of the Senate or General Assembly shall be elected to represent this State in the Senate or House of Representatives of the United States, and shall accept thereof, or shall accept of any office or appointment under the government of the United States, his seat in the Legislature of this State shall thereby be vacated.

3. No justice of the Supreme Court, nor judge of any other court, sheriff, justice of the peace, nor any person or persons possessed of any office of profit under the government of this State, shall be entitled to a seat either in the Senate or in the General Assembly; but on being elected and taking his seat, his office shall be considered vacant; and no person holding any office of profit under the government of the United States, shall be entitled to a seat in either House.

SEC. VI.—1. All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the House of Assembly; but the Senate may propose or concur with amendments as on other bills.

2. No money shall be drawn from the treasury, but for appropriations made by law.

3. The credit of the State shall not be directly or indirectly loaned in any case.

4. The Legislature shall not, in any manner, create any debt or debts, liability or liabilities of the State, which shall singly, or in the aggregate with any previous debts or liabilities, at any time exceed one hundred thousand dollars, except for purposes of war or to repel invasion, or to suppress insurrection, unless the same shall be authorized by law for some single object or work, to be distinctly specified therein; which law shall provide the ways and means, exclusive of loans, to pay the interest of such debt or liability as it falls due; and also, to pay and discharge the principal of such debt or liability within thirty-five years from the time of the contracting thereof, and shall be irrevocable until such debt or liability, and the interest thereon, are fully paid and discharged: and no such law shall take effect until it shall, at a general election, have been submitted to the people, and have received the sanction of a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election: and all money to be raised by the authority of such law shall be applied only to the specific object stated therein, and to the payment of the debt thereby created. This section shall not be construed to refer to any money that has been, or may be deposited with this State by the government of the United States.

SEC. VII.—1. No divorce shall be granted by the Legislature.

2. No lottery shall be authorized by this State; and no ticket in any lottery not authorized by a law of this State shall be bought or sold within the State.

3. The Legislature shall not pass any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts, or depriving a party of any remedy for enforcing a contract which existed when the contract was made.

4. To avoid improper influences, which may result from intermixing in one and the same act such things as have no proper relation to each other, every law shall embrace but one object, and that shall be expressed in the title.

5. The laws of this State shall begin in the following style, "Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey."

6. The fund for the support of free schools, and all money, stock and other property, which may hereafter be appropriated for that purpose, or received into the treasury under the provision of any law heretofore passed to augment the said fund, shall be securely invested, and remain a perpetual fund; and the income thereof, except so much as it may be judged expedient to apply to an increase of the capital, shall be annually appropriated to the support of public schools, for the equal benefit of all the people of the State; and it shall not be competent for the Legislature to borrow, appropriate, or use the said fund, or any part thereof, for any other purpose, under any pretence whatever.

7. No private or special law shall be passed, authorizing the sale of any lands belonging in whole or in part to a minor or minors, or other persons who may at the time be under any legal disability to act for themselves.

8. The assent of three-fifths of the members elected to each House shall be requisite to the passage of every law for granting, continuing, altering, amending, or renewing charters for banks or money corporations; and all such charters shall be limited to a term not exceeding twenty years.

9. Individuals, or private corporations, shall not be authorized to take private property for public use, without just compensation first made to the owners.

10. The Legislature may vest in the Circuit Courts or Courts of Common Pleas, within the several counties of this State, chancery powers, so far as relates to the foreclosure of mortgages and sale of mortgaged premises.

SEC. VIII.—1. Members of the Legislature, shall, before they enter on the duties of their respective offices, take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation:—

"I do solemnly swear, (or affirm, as the case may be,) that I will support the Constitution of the United States, and the Constitution of the State of New Jersey, and that I will faithfully discharge the duties of senator (or member of the General Assembly, as the case may be,) according to the best of my ability."

And members elect of the Senate or General Assembly, are hereby empowered to administer to each other the said oath or affirmation.

ARTICLE V.

EXECUTIVE.

1. The executive power shall be vested in a Governor.

2. The Governor shall be elected by the legal voters of this State. The person having the highest number of votes shall be the Governor; but, if two or more shall be equal and highest in votes, one of them shall be chosen Governor by the vote of the majority of the members of both Houses in joint meeting. Contested elections for the office of Governor shall be determined in such manner as the Legislature shall direct by law. When a Governor is to be elected by the people, such election shall be held at the time when and the places where the people shall respectively vote for members of the Legislature.

3. The Governor shall hold his office for three years, to commence on the third Tuesday of January next ensuing the election for Governor by the people, and to end on the Monday preceding the third Tuesday of January, three years thereafter; and he shall be incapable of holding that office for three years next after his term of service shall have expired; and no appointment or nomination to office shall be made by the Governor during the last week of his said term.

4. The Governor shall be not less than thirty years of age, and shall have been for twenty years, at least, a citizen of the United States, and a resident of this state seven years, next before his election, unless he shall have been absent during that time on the public business of the United States or of this State.

5. The Governor shall, at stated times, receive for his services a compensation, which shall be neither increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected.

6. He shall be the commander-in-chief of all the military and naval forces of the State; he shall have power to convene the Legislature, whenever, in his opinion, public necessity requires it; he shall communicate, by message, to the Legislature at the opening of each session, and at such other times as he may deem necessary, the condition of the State, and recommend such measures as he may deem expedient; he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and grant, under the great seal of the State, commissions to all such officers as shall be required to be commissioned.

7. Every bill which shall have passed both Houses, shall be presented to the Governor; if he approve, he shall sign it; but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to the House in which it shall have originated; who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to re-consider it; if, after such re-consideration, a majority of the whole number of that House shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other House, by which it shall likewise be re-considered, and if approved of by a majority of the whole number of that House, it shall become a law; but in neither House shall the vote be taken on the same day on which the bill shall be returned to it; and in all such cases the votes of both Houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each House respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the Governor, within five days (Sunday excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Legislature, by their adjournment, prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law.

8. No member of Congress, or person holding an office under the United States, or this State, shall exercise the office of Governor; and in case the Governor, or the person administering the government, shall accept any office under the United States, or this State, his office of Governor shall thereupon be vacant.

9. The Governor, or person administering the government, shall have power to suspend the collection of fines and forfeitures, and to grant reprieves, to extend until the expiration of a time not exceeding ninety days after conviction; but this power shall not extend to cases of impeachment.

10. The Governor, or person administering the government, the chancellor, and the six judges of the Court of Errors and Appeals, or a major part of them, of whom the Governor, or the person administering the government, shall be one, may remit fines and forfeitures, and grant pardons after conviction, in all cases, except impeachment.

11. The Governor and all other civil officers under this State shall be liable to impeachment for misdemeanor in office during their continuance in office, and for two years thereafter.

12. In case of the death, resignation, or removal from office of the Governor, the powers, duties, and emoluments of the office shall devolve upon the President of the Senate; and in case of his death, resignation, or removal, then upon the Speaker of the House of Assembly for the time being, until another Governor shall be elected and qualified; but in such case, another Governor shall be chosen at the next election for members of the State Legislature, unless such death, resignation, or removal shall occur within thirty days immediately preceding such next election, in which case a Governor shall be chosen at the second succeeding election for members of the Legislature. When a vacancy happens, during the recess of the Legislature, in any office which is to be filled by the Governor and Senate, or by the Legislature in joint meeting, the Governor shall fill such vacancy, and the commission shall expire at the end of the next session of the Legislature, unless a successor shall be sooner appointed; when a vacancy happens in the office of clerk or surrogate of any county, the Governor shall fill such vacancy, and the commission shall expire when a successor is elected and qualified.

13. In case of the impeachment of the Governor, his absence from the State, or inability to discharge the duties of his office, the powers, duties and emoluments of the office shall devolve upon the President of the Senate; and in case of his death, resignation, or removal, then upon the Speaker of the House of Assembly, for the time being, until the Governor, absent or impeached, shall return or be acquitted, or until the disqualification or inability shall cease, or until a new Governor be elected and qualified.

14. In case of a vacancy in the office of Governor from any other cause than those herein enumerated, or in case of the death of the Governor elect before he is qualified into office, the powers, duties, and emoluments of the office shall devolve upon the President of the Senate or Speaker of the House of Assembly, as above provided for, until a new Governor be elected and qualified.

ARTICLE VI.

JUDICIARY.

SEC. I.—1. The judicial power shall be vested in a court of errors and appeals in the last resort in all causes, as heretofore; a court for the trial of impeachments; a court of chancery; a prerogative court; a supreme court; circuit courts, and such inferior courts as now exist, and as may be hereafter ordained and established by law; which inferior courts the Legislature may alter or abolish, as the public good shall require.

SEC. II.—1. The court of errors and appeals shall consist of the chancellor, the justices of the supreme court, and six judges, or a major part of them; which judges are to be appointed for six years.

2. Immediately after the court shall first assemble, the six judges shall arrange themselves in such manner that the seat of one of them shall be vacated every year, in order that thereafter one judge may be annually appointed.

3. Such of the six judges as shall attend the court shall receive, respectively, a per diem compensation, to be provided by law.

4. The Secretary of State shall be the clerk of this court.

5. When an appeal from an order or decree shall be heard, the chancellor shall inform the court, in writing, of the reason of his order or decree; but he shall not sit as a member, or have a voice in the hearing or final sentence.

6. When a writ of error shall be brought, no justice who has given a judicial opinion in the cause, in favor of or against any error complained of, shall sit as a member, or have a voice on the hearing, or for its affirmance or reversal; but the reasons for such opinion shall be assigned to the court in writing.

SEC. III.—1. The House of Assembly shall have the sole power of impeaching, by a vote of a majority of all the members; and all impeachments shall be tried by the Senate: the members, when sitting for that purpose, to be on oath or affirmation "truly and impartially to try and determine the charge in question according to evidence:" and no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of all the members of the Senate.

2. Any judicial officer impeached shall be suspended from exercising his office until his acquittal.

3. Judgment, in cases of impeachment, shall not extend farther than to removal from office and to disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, profit or trust under this State; but the party convicted shall nevertheless be liable to indictment, trial and punishment, according to law.

4. The Secretary of State shall be the clerk of this court.

SEC. IV.—1. The court of chancery shall consist of a chancellor.

2. The chancellor shall be the ordinary, or surrogate general, and judge of the prerogative court.

3. All persons aggrieved by any order, sentence, or decree of the orphans' court, may appeal from the same, or from any part thereof, to the prerogative court; but such order, sentence, or decree shall not be removed into the supreme court, or circuit court, if the subject matter thereof be within the jurisdiction of the orphans' court.

4. The Secretary of State shall be the register of the prerogative court, and shall perform the duties required of him by law in that respect.

SEC. V.—1. The supreme court shall consist of a chief justice and four associate justices. The number of associate justices may be increased or decreased by law, but shall never be less than two.

2. The circuit courts shall be held in every county of this State, by one or more of the justices of the supreme court, or a judge appointed for that purpose; and shall in all cases within the county, except in those of a criminal nature, have common law jurisdiction concurrent with the supreme court; and any final judgment of a circuit court may be docketed in the supreme court, and shall operate as a judgment obtained in the supreme court, from the time of such docketing.

3. Final judgments in any circuit court may be brought by writ of error into the supreme court, or directly into the court of errors and appeals.

SEC. VI.—1. There shall be no more than five judges of the inferior court of common pleas in each of the counties in this State after the terms of the judges of said court now in office shall terminate. One judge for each county shall be appointed every year and no more, except to fill vacancies, which shall be for the unexpired term only.

2. The commissions for the first appointments of judges of said court shall bear date and take effect on the first day of April next; and all subsequent commissions for judges of said court shall bear date, and take effect on the first day of April in every successive year, except commissions to fill vacancies, which shall bear date and take effect when issued.

SEC. VII.—1. There may be elected, under this constitution, two, and not more than five, justices of the peace in each of the townships of the several counties of this State, and in each of the wards, in cities that may vote in wards. When a township or ward contains two thousand inhabitants, or less, it may have two justices; when it contains more than two thousand inhabitants, and not more than four thousand, it may have four justices; and when it contains more than four thousand inhabitants, it may have five justices; provided, that whenever any township, not voting in wards, contains more than seven thousand inhabitants, such township may have an additional justice for each additional three thousand inhabitants above four thousand.

2. The population of the townships in the several counties of the State, and of the several wards, shall be ascertained by the last preceding census of the United States, until the Legislature shall provide by law some other mode of ascertaining it.

ARTICLE VII.

APPOINTING POWER AND TENURE OF OFFICE.

SEC. I.—Militia Officers.—1. The Legislature shall provide by law for enrolling, organizing, and arming the militia.

2. Captains, subalterns, and non-commissioned officers shall be elected by the members of their respective companies.

3. Field officers of regiments, independent battalions and squadrons shall be elected by the commissioned officers of their respective regiments, battalions, or squadrons.

4. Brigadier generals shall be elected by the field officers of their respective brigades.

5. Major generals shall be nominated by the Governor, and appointed by him, with the advice and consent of the Senate.

6. The Legislature shall provide, by law, the time and manner of electing militia officers, and of certifying their elections to the Governor, who shall grant their commissions and determine their rank, when not determined by law : and no commissioned officer shall be removed from office but by the sentence of a court martial, pursuant to law.

7. In case the electors of subalterns, captains, or field officers, shall refuse or neglect to make such elections, the Governor shall have power to appoint such officers, and to fill all vacancies caused by such refusal or neglect.

8. Brigade inspectors shall be chosen by the field officers of their respective brigades.

9. The Governor shall appoint the adjutant general, quartermaster general, and all other militia officers whose appointment is not otherwise provided for in this constitution.

10. Major generals, brigadier generals, and commanding officers of regiments, independent battalions, and squadrons shall appoint the staff officers of their divisions, brigades, regiments, independent battalions, and squadrons, respectively.

SEC. II.—Civil Officers.—1. Justices of the supreme court, chancellor, and judges of the court of errors and appeals, shall be nominated by the Governor, and appointed by him, with the advice and consent of the Senate. The justices of the supreme court and chancellor shall hold their offices for the term of seven years ; shall, at stated times, receive for their services a compensation, which shall not be diminished during the term of their appointments ; and they shall hold no other office under the government of this State or of the United States.

2. Judges of the courts of common pleas shall be appointed by the Senate and General Assembly, in joint meeting. They shall hold their offices for five years ; but when appointed to fill vacancies, they shall hold for the unexpired term only.

3. The state treasurer, and the keeper and inspectors of the state prison shall be appointed by the Senate and General Assembly, in joint meeting. They shall hold their offices for one year, and until their successors shall be qualified into office.

4. The attorney general, prosecutors of the pleas, clerk of the supreme court, clerk of the court of chancery, and secretary of state, shall be nominated by the Governor, and appointed by him, with the advice and consent of the Senate. They shall hold their offices for five years.

5. The law reporter shall be appointed by the justices of the supreme court or a majority of them ; and the chancery reporter shall be appointed by the chancellor. They shall hold their offices for five years.

6. Clerks and surrogates of counties shall be elected by the people of their respective counties, at the annual election for members of the General Assembly. They shall hold their offices for five years.

7. Sheriffs and coroners shall be elected annually, by the people of their respective counties, at the annual elections for members of the General Assembly. They may be re-elected until they shall have served three years, but no longer; after which, three years must elapse before they can again be capable of serving.

8. Justices of the peace shall be elected, by ballot, at the annual meetings of the townships in the several counties of the State, and of the wards, in cities that may vote in wards, in such manner, and under such regulations, as may be hereafter provided by law. They shall be commissioned for the county, and their commissions shall bear date and take effect on the first day of May next after their election. They shall hold their offices for five years; but when elected to fill vacancies, they shall hold for the unexpired term only; provided, that the commission of any justice of the peace shall become vacant upon his ceasing to reside in the township in which he was elected. The first election for justices of the peace shall take place at the first annual town meetings of the townships in the several counties of the State, and of the wards, in cities that may vote in wards.

9. All other officers, whose appointments are not otherwise provided for by law, shall be nominated by the Governor, and appointed by him, with the advice and consent of the Senate; and shall hold their offices for the time prescribed by law.

10. All civil officers elected or appointed pursuant to the provisions of this constitution shall be commissioned by the Governor.

11. The term of office of all officers elected or appointed pursuant to the provisions of this constitution, except when herein otherwise directed, shall commence on the day of the date of their respective commissions; but no commissions for any office shall bear date prior to the expiration of the term of the incumbent of said office.

ARTICLE VIII.

GENERAL PROVISION.

1. The secretary of state shall be ex-officio an auditor of the accounts of the treasurer, and, as such it shall be his duty to assist the Legislature in the annual examination and settlement of said accounts, until otherwise provided by law.

2. The seal of the State shall be kept by the Governor, or person administering the government, and used by him officially, and shall be called the great seal of the State of New Jersey.

3. All grants and commissions shall be in the name and by the authority of the State of New Jersey, sealed with the great seal, signed by the Governor, or person administering the government, and countersigned by the Secretary of State, and shall run thus: "The State of New Jersey to ———, greeting." All writs shall be in the name of the State; and all indictments shall conclude in the following manner, viz: "against the peace of this State, the government and dignity of the same."

4. This constitution shall take effect, and go into operation on the second day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty-four.

ARTICLE IX.

AMENDMENTS.

1. Any specific amendment or amendments to the constitution may be proposed in the Senate or General Assembly, and if the same shall be agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, such proposed amendment or amendments shall be entered on their journals, with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and referred to the Legislature then next to be chosen, and shall be published, for three months previous to making such choice, in at least one newspaper of each county, if any be published therein; and if in the Legislature next chosen, as aforesaid, such proposed amendment or amendments, or any of them, shall be agreed to by a majority of all the members elected to each house, then it shall be the duty of the Legislature to submit such proposed amendment or amendments, or such of them as may have been agreed to as aforesaid by the two Legislatures, to the people, in such manner and at such time, at least four months after the adjournment of the Legislature, as the Legislature shall prescribe; and if the people, at a special election, to be held for that purpose only, shall approve and ratify such amendment or amendments, or any of them, by a majority of the electors qualified to vote for members of the Legislature voting thereon, such amendment or amendments, so approved and ratified, shall become part of the constitution: provided, that if more than one amendment be submitted, they shall be submitted in such manner and form that the people may vote for or against each amendment separately and distinctly; but no amendment or amendments shall be submitted to the people by the Legislature oftener than once in five years.

ARTICLE X.

SCHEDULE.

That no inconvenience may arise from the change in the constitution of this State, and in order to carry the same into complete operation, it is hereby declared and ordained, that—

1. The common law and statute laws now in force not repugnant to this constitution, shall remain in force until they expire by their own limitation, or be altered or repealed by the Legislature; and all writs, actions, causes of action, prosecutions, contracts, claims, and rights of individuals, and of bodies corporate, and of the State, and all charters of incorporation, shall continue, and all indictments which shall have been found, or which may hereafter be found, for any crime or offence committed before the adoption of this constitution, may be proceeded upon as if no change had taken place. The several courts of law and equity, except as herein otherwise provided, shall continue with the like powers and jurisdiction as if this constitution had not been adopted.

2. All officers now filling any office or appointment, shall continue in the exercise of the duties thereof, according to their respective commissions or appointments, unless, by this constitution, it is otherwise directed.

3. The present Governor, chancellor, and ordinary or surrogate general and treasurer, shall continue in office until successors elected or appointed under this constitution shall be sworn or affirmed into office.

4. In case of the death, resignation, or disability of the present Governor, the person who may be vice president of council at the time of the adoption of this constitution, shall continue in office, and administer the government, until a Governor shall have been elected and sworn or affirmed into office under this constitution.

5. The present Governor, or in case of his death, or inability to act, the vice president of council, together with the present members of the Legislative Council and Secretary of State shall constitute a board of state canvassers, in the manner now provided by law, for the purpose of ascertaining and declaring the result of the next ensuing election for Governor, members of the House of Representatives, and electors of President and Vice President.

6. The returns of the votes for Governor, at the said next ensuing election shall be transmitted to the Secretary of State, the votes counted, and the election declared, in the manner now provided by law in the case of the election of electors of President and Vice President.

7. The election of clerks and surrogates, in those counties where the term of office of the present incumbents shall expire previous to the general election of eighteen hundred and forty-five, shall be held at the general election next ensuing the adoption of this constitution; the result of which election shall be ascertained in the manner now provided by law for the election of sheriffs.

8. The elections for the year eighteen hundred and forty-four shall take place as now provided by law.

9. It shall be the duty of the Governor to fill all vacancies in office happening between the adoption of this constitution and the first session of the Senate, and not otherwise provided for; and the commissions shall expire at the end of the first session of the Senate, or when successors shall be elected or appointed and qualified.

10. The restriction of the pay of the members of the Legislature, after forty days from the commencement of the session, shall not be applied to the first Legislature convened under this constitution.

11. Clerks of counties shall be clerks of the inferior courts of common pleas and quarter sessions of the several counties, and perform the duties, and be subject to the regulations, now required of them by law, until otherwise ordained by the Legislature.

12. The Legislature shall pass all laws necessary to carry into effect the provisions of this constitution.

JUSTICES OF THE PEACE.

The following list of Justices of the Peace, elected since the formation of the new Constitution, was taken from Government Records, at the State House in Trenton, in June, 1850. According to the new Constitution,† Justices of the Peace shall be elected at the Township or Ward meetings, and be commissioned the 1st of May following, for a term of five years; unless elected to fill vacancies, in which case they hold for the unexpired term only.

Passenger cars leave the Depot in Philadelphia (cor of 8th and Market streets,) daily at 8 o'clock, A. M., arrive at Lancaster and take the cars of the Penn. Central Railroad at 12 o'clock, M. No transfer is made of baggage, the car which contains it runs entirely through from Philadelphia to the terminus of the road.

Passengers dine at Harrisburg; reach Lewistown at 5½, and Huntingdon at 8, P. M. At this point, which, at present, is the temporary terminus of the Penn. Railroad, a connection is made with the Telegraph Stage line to Pittsburg. The distance now travelled by stages on this route, is 34 miles less, from Philadelphia to Pittsburg, than by way of Chambersburg. New portions of the Penn. Railroad are about being opened, when, by temporarily connecting it with the Portage Railroad across the Alleghany mountains, the stage distance will be reduced to 71 miles. The whole distance from Philadelphia to Pittsburg by this road, when completed, will not exceed 358 miles, or 17 miles longer than the present stage route. The road is now open to Huntingdon, and the time between Philadelphia and Pittsburg is reduced to 38 hours by stage lines.

FREIGHT TRAINS are run daily on the Penn. Railroad, at low rates. The rate of fare for passengers on that portion of the route, owned and operated by the Penn. Railroad Co., is three cents per mile. During the continuance of navigation, Packet Boats ply daily upon the Pennsylvania Canal, between the terminus of the road and Pittsburg.

PARTICULAR NOTICE TO TRAVELLERS.

The following Rules and Regulations have been adopted generally by the Railroads, in regard to Passengers and their Baggage.

Passengers must procure their tickets before taking their seats in the cars.

They must not smoke in the cars or station houses.

They are not allowed, under any circumstances, to stand on the platform of the cars.

They must not take or leave the cars when in motion, nor put their heads or arms out of the car windows.

They must also take seats in the cars marked for their respective stations.

All baggage must be delivered to the baggage master, or other person authorised to receive it, before the passenger takes his seat in the cars.

Baggage must be accompanied, in the same train, by its owner, but not allowed in the passenger car.

The liability of the company as common carriers will not commence till such baggage, or other articles, are received on board the train; and will terminate when unladen from the train at their place of destination.

Baggage will not be taken to include money, merchandise, or other articles than those of personal use; and when of higher value than the highest sum advertised, which is, we believe, about $50, notice must be given of that fact, and an extra price paid, or the company will not hold itself liable beyond that amount.

The company will not hold itself liable for any valise, package, or other article of personal property, taken by the passenger with him into the cars.

REGULATIONS REGARDING FREIGHT.

All articles of freight must be plainly and distinctly marked, or they will not be received by the company; and when designed to be forwarded, after transportation on the railroad, a written order must be given, with the particular line of boats or teams marked on the goods, if any such be preferred or desired.

The company will not hold itself liable for the safe carriage or custody of any articles of freight, unless receipted for by an authorised agent; and no agent of the company is authorised to receive, or agree to transport any freight which is not thus receipted for. Duplicate receipts, in the form prescribed by each company, ready for signing, must accompany the delivery of any freight to that company.

No responsibility will be admitted, under any circumstances, to a greater amount upon any single article of freight than $200, unless upon notice given of such amount, and a special agreement therefor. Specie, drafts, bank bills, and other articles of great intrinsic or representative value; will only be taken upon a representation of their value, and by a special agreement assented to by the superintendent.

The company will not hold themselves liable at all for any injury to articles of freight, during the course of transportation, arising from the weather or accidental delays. Nor will they guarantee any special despatch in the transportation of such articles, unless made the subject of express stipulation. Nor will they hold themselves liable as common carriers, for such articles, after their arrival at their places of destination and unloading in the company's warehouses or stations.

Machinery, furniture, stoves and castings, mineral acids, all liquids put up in glass or earthen ware, unpacked fruit, and live animals, will only be taken at the owner's risk of fracture or injury during the course of transportation, loading and unloading, unless specially agreed to the contrary.

Gunpowder, friction matches, and like combustibles, will not be received on any terms; and all persons procuring the reception of such freight by fraud or concealment, will be held responsible for any damage which may arise from it while in the custody of the company.

All articles of freight, arriving at their place of destination, must be taken away within twenty-four hours after being unladen from the cars.

ATLANTIC COUNTY.

Atlantic county, formerly a portion of Gloucester county, was formed in 1837, and is 31 miles long by 22 wide. Burlington county forms the principal boundary on the North, the Atlantic ocean on the East, Cape May and Cumberland counties South and South-west, and Gloucester and Camden counties West.

Along the coast, mechanical business, (with the exception of ship building,) is somewhat limited, as many families obtain a livelihood by oystering and fishing, both of which, (oysters and fish,) as well as clams, are taken in large quantities. The principal streams are Great and Little Egg Harbour rivers, which are navigable for many miles, and render facilities for the transportation of wood, charcoal, &c. ; those forming the principal articles of transportation.

There are some glass manufactories and furnaces in different portions of the county, and two extensive Oakum manufactories at May's Landing ; ship building seems to be the leading mechanical business, and is principally conducted in the following places : Absecombe, Bakersville, Leedsville, May's Landing, Tuckahoe, and Port Republic. White Cedar abounds extensively in swamps in different parts of the county, and is valued at one, two and three hundred dollars per acre. Agricultural pursuits are quite limited, as a large portion of the county is covered with Pines, and much of the remaining portion but poorly cultivated.

CAPTAIN RICHARD SOMERS, a distinguished officer of the United States Navy, was a native of this county, and was born about the year 1778, at Somers' Point.*

MAY'S LANDING, the seat of justice of Atlantic county, is situated on the Great Egg Harbour river, at the head of navigation, 16 miles from the Atlantic ocean, 60 miles from Trenton, and 45 miles from Philadelphia ; contains about five hundred inhabitants, (including Hamilton,) has a court house, jail, &c., two churches, two schools, five stores, one flouring mill, two cupola furnaces, two Oakum factories, &c. May's Landing derived its name from George May, who in 1710 bought and settled on the land, upon which the village now stands.

BERGEN COUNTY.

BERGEN COUNTY, in the North-Eastern part of the State, is bounded North by Rockland county, New York; East by the Hudson river; South by Hudson and Passaic counties, and West by Passaic county. The Ramapo Mountains extend through the North-Western portion of the county, and the Pallisades the whole length of the Eastern portion; the central portion is generally level, and is in a high state of cultivation, producing early crops of vegetables, which find a ready sale in the New York markets, where a greater portion of them are conveyed. The principal streams in the county are Hackensack, Ramapo, and Saddle Rivers, in the valleys of which there are many fine farms, adorned by neat cottages. This county was settled by Dutch, and many of its inhabitants still speak the German language.

THE PALLISADE ROCKS, which extend from a short distance above New York to Tappan, a distance of 21 miles, present a sublime and picturesque view, which truly ranks with the finest in the world, and can only be appreciated by a view thereof; in places they rise nearly perpendicular to the height of five or six hundred feet, forming a solid wall of rock for several miles. On the Hudson, at the foot of these rocks, about nine miles above New York, and five miles S. E. of Hackensack, there is a small irregularly built village, still retaining the name of Fort Lee, which it derived from a fort built during the Revolution, on a summit of the rocks, near three hundred feet above the river, and overlooking the village. In excavating a cellar, in the village, a few years since, there were many military relics found, such as swords, bayonets, &c. At the time of the massacre at Fort Washington, on the opposite side of the river, Nov. 16th, 1776, it is said that Washington stood on "Point Bluff," a commanding eminence of the Pallisades a short distance above Fort Lee, and with a spy glass he witnessed the massacre, became greatly agitated, and even wept. In four days after, the Americans evacuated Fort Lee.

A few hundred yards above the boundary line, in the State of New York, and near the village of Tappan, is the place where Major Andre was executed. In August, 1831, his remains were disinterred and removed to England, and all that now remains to mark the place of his execution and grave, is a stake and small heap of stones.

HACKENSACK, the Seat of Justice of Bergen county, was originally settled by Dutch, and is situated on the west bank of the Hackensack River, thirteen miles from New York, and sixty-five N. E. of Trenton. It contained about thirty houses at the commencement of the Revolution, but at the present time it contains 250, and has a population of near 2,000.

There is a Turnpike leading to Fort Lee, another to Paterson, and a third to Hoboken, the latter was the second chartered in the state. Hackensack ranks with the most pleasant villages of the State, and contains many very beautiful mansions, the appearance of which is greatly improved by the beautiful shade trees, and tastefully arranged shrubbery that surround them. The best and most picturesque view of the town and vicinity, is from a hill a short distance west of it, by which you also obtain a view of the hills along the eastern boundary of the county.

In Nov., 1776, and the day after Washington left the town, it was taken possession of by the British, who had with them between three and four thousand Hessians, some of which were taken prisoners at Trenton, in about two months after. In 1780 the Hessians burned two dwellings, and the Court House. The Court House now standing, (the fourth erected since the formation of the county,) is a brick edifice, and was built in 1819. Washington held his head quarters at a private house, the residence of Mr. Peter Zabriskie, the supplies of his table, whilst quartered there, were furnished by Mr. Campbell, the hotel keeper. In the year 1777, the celebrated Aaron Burr (then a Lieut. Colonel in the American Army) surprised and captured the picket guard of the enemy, who were encamped about four miles from the town.

BURLINGTON COUNTY.

BURLINGTON COUNTY is the largest and only county in the State that extends from the Delaware to the Atlantic Ocean, a distance of fifty-two miles; the north-western part is twenty-two miles wide, the south-eastern only thirteen; the boundaries were first established in 1694, but not definitely settled until 1710, when they were reduced by the formation of Hunterdon County; and in 1838 the formation of Mercer County, took from it (Burlington County) the Township of Nottingham. It is now bounded N. N. W. by the Delaware River, N. by Mercer and Ocean Counties, E. and S. E. by Ocean County and the Atlantic Ocean, and S. and S. W. by Atlantic and Camden Counties. Since the formation of Ocean County (in 1850) from Monmouth, the latter merely corners on Burlington County, at the northern extremity,—Crosswick's Creek forming a portion of the boundary line between Monmouth and Ocean Counties. Burlington County is generally level, and the soil is principally composed of clay, loam, sand and gravel. In the western interior, a few miles from the Delaware River, is some of the most fertile and productive land in the State. It is divided into fine farms, which are in a high state of cultivation, and produce large crops of wheat, rye, corn, oats, potatoes, grass, &c.; and not unfrequently do we hear of there having been produced one hundred bushels of Indian corn per acre. Marl of the best quality abounds in large quantities in this section, and contributes greatly to promote the interest so generally manifested in agricultural pursuits. The eastern and south-eastern interior of the county is composed of a light sandy soil, covered principally with pines, and but thinly settled. You may, in some parts, travel eight or ten miles without seeing a house, and not unfrequently twenty miles without seeing a human being; this to the traveller, is truly a wilderness; the only settlements are where Glass Factories, Furnaces or Forges are erected. Some of the former produce window glass, which, in quality, is equal to any manufactured in America.

MOUNT HOLLY, the seat of justice of Burlington County, is situated on the north branch of the Rancocas Creek, at the head of navigation.

Prior to the revolution, there were only about two hundred houses in the place. It then bore the name of Bridgetown. Its present name was derived from the mount situated in close proximity to the town, upon which holly trees grew in abundance. This eminence is said to be the highest land in the southern portion of the State. The view from its summit is now beautiful, but will be much more so upon the erection of an observatory, which has been proposed, and will, perhaps, be erected ere another year has elapsed. The cemetery lying near the base of the mount, towards the town, bids fair to be one of the most handsome in the country. Mount Holly was settled by Friends, shortly after the settlement of Burlington, and became quite an important place during the revolution. The sittings of the Legislature were for a time held here. And about this time, William IV. visited here with some British troops. Some of the British troops frequently quartered here temporarily. The County Courts were held at Burlington prior to 1796, when they were removed to Mount Holly. About this time, Stephen Girard, (the late millionaire of Philadelphia,) took up his residence here, after having travelled across the country from Egg Harbour, on a peddling tour. Soon after coming to Mount Holly, he opened a shop, and sold cigars and raisins by small quantities; he was married here, and it is said to a woman of great beauty. There are in Mount Holly many beautiful private residences, among which is Dunn's cottage, built by Nathan Dunn, late proprietor of the Chinese Museum, in Philadelphia; it is built principally upon the Chinese style, and surrounded with the choicest shrubbery.

BURLINGTON, this is the third name given this city since its first settlement; the first was New Beverly, and the second was Bridlington. It was settled by Friends from Yorkshire and London; who, after having sent commissioners in 1667, to purchase lands of the natives, agreed to unite in settling a town on the Jersey shore of the Delaware, choosing this for the site. A surveyor by the name of Noble, came in company with the commissioners, and upon their purchasing the land, was employed to divide the spot. After laying out what is now called High street, he divided the land on each side into lots; those on the east side were possessed by purchasers from Yorkshire, and those on the west by Londoners. A few Dutch families resided here prior to 1676, one of whom kept a tavern. The first ship that was ever known to sail as far up the Delaware as Burlington, was the SHIELD, of Stockton, which brought over some of the first settlers, and landed them here in the year 1678. Among whom were Daniel and Mary Smith and son, (Robert,) Mahlon Stacy and Thomas Lambert. When they arrived here, they found a few English living here, who had come to the country a year previous, and landed a few miles below. Burlington soon became a place of considerable importance. Its meridian and latitude was assumed for the calculation of the first almanac which was published for the year 1687. The first newspaper published in the State was commenced here December 5th, 1777, it was very ably conducted, and patronized successfully by the colony and States. There were published in it many effective essays written by Governor Livingston.

William Penn, when Governor of Pennsylvania, would, (when passing from Philadelphia to his Manor House, in Pennsbury, above Bristol,) frequently stop at Burlington to visit Governor Jennings, of New Jersey, (a prominent Quaker minister.) Franklin is said to have enjoyed the society of the inhabitants of this place, as their minds were congenial to his own.

St. Mary's Hall, in Burlington, is a large and magnificent boarding school for girls, under the direction of George W. Doane, Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church of New Jersey. It is pleasantly situated on the green bank, which presents to the passenger (up and down the river) a beautiful view, and affords to the girls a play-ground, which for beauty, cannot be excelled by any in the State.

BORDENTOWN is nine miles from Burlington, thirteen from Mount Holly, and six and a half miles from Trenton. It is situated on the direct railroad route from New York to Philadelphia. Its beautiful and healthy location, draws to it many visitors during the summer. The town derived its name from Joseph Borden, but was first settled in 1681, by Thomas Farnsworth, and was, during the revolution, frequently in possession of the British troops. In 1778, whilst Philadelphia remained in possession of the enemy, some British troops were despatched up the river to destroy some vessels, that were at the time, harbored here for safety. On their arrival here, they burnt the dwelling and store of Joseph Borden, and the following day anticipated making a descent upon Trenton; but upon passing up the river, they met with unexpected opposition; returned and landed at Colonel Kirkbride's farm, on the Pennsylvania side, and destroyed his buildings.

Francis Hopkins, a native of Pennsylvania, and one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, resided in this place many years. He died on the 8th of May, 1791.

In 1816, Joseph Buonaparte, (eldest brother of Napoleon, and ex-King of Naples and Spain,) settled here. He mingled but very little in society—spending most of his time in improving his grounds, which after his death, and prior to Mr. Richards purchasing the property, were much neglected.

CAMDEN COUNTY.

CAMDEN COUNTY is bounded N. and N. E. by Burlington county; E. and S. E. by Burlington and Atlantic counties; S. and S. W. by Gloucester county, and W. by the Delaware River; it was formerly a portion of Gloucester county, and since its formation there have been several elections held for the purpose of deciding upon a site, whereupon to erect the county buildings, but, as yet, it remains unsettled, and the Courts are still held in Camden. The tide of improvement is rapidly progressing in Camden and vicinity, as will be seen by the following description, from the Philadelphia Sun, May 20th, 1850:

HISTORICAL.—CAMDEN CITY AND COUNTY.—A few brief sketches, giving a succinct history of any country, county or city, is something that ought to be more strictly attended to, in order to awaken a sense of the obligations we owe to our forefathers, for the fruits of their adventures which we now enjoy; and we trust that a few sketches of this character may not prove uninteresting to our numerous readers in Camden city and county.

Camden city and township once belonged to Gloucester county, and, at that time, the greatest portion of the district was employed in tillage, principally of fruit and early vegetables for the Philadelphia markets, to which the soil was and is well adapted. The district was then divided into three separate and distinct villages, which corresponded with the three present wards of the city, with considerable vacant ground between them. The point directly opposite the Northern Liberties was called Cooper's Point, which took its name from a resident of the place. That opposite the Navy Yard was called Kaighnton, from the same reason. The family from whom it took its name, having settled there in 1696, and the descendants of whom reside there still. In 1832 it contained 35 dwellings, a store, a school-house, two taverns, a tannery, an extensive smithery, and a manufactory of steel springs for carriages.

The largest and most central part of the city was first called Camden, about the year 1772, when first separated into town lots, by Jacob Cooper, who was the proprietor of nearly the whole portion of that land. It lying directly opposite the centre of Philadelphia, the lots became quite valuable, and a number of dwellings and other houses were soon erected. The land at Cooper's Point had, up to 1832, remained in the hands of the descendants of James Cooper, for 145 years, without the alienation of a single foot, and it is still in the possession of owners bearing the name of Cooper. The tract was first taken up in 1687 by William Cooper, after it had been sold by Lord Berkeley to Byllinger.

When the city was incorporated, which occurred in 1828, the population of the district was 1143; in 1830 it had increased to 1987; and in 1833 the inhabitants had increased to 2341. Of this number there were 417 housekeepers, or heads of families; 1237 males; 1104 females; 78 widows, and 105 people of color. It also contained 364 dwelling houses, and about 60 other buildings, which were occupied as manufactories, stores, and schools. It also contained Baptist, Methodist and Quaker meeting-houses, a Court House, where the city sessions were and still are quarterly held, for the trial of minor offences, and a prison connected with it. It had an academy, where the rudiments of a common English education were taught; it likewise had a "Bank" with a capital of $300,000; a patent leather, and a tin ware manufactory, 2 tanneries, a steam saw and grist mill, 2 saddle and harness makers, 6 coach makers, whose business did not exceed in value $60,000 annually, and whose work, being exported to a great extent, was of a cheap order, yet beautiful of finish, and durable; 8 smitheries, connected with two of which were manufactories of steel springs; a white, or silver smith; a clock and watch-maker shop, a comb manufactory, a trunk manufactory, 2 bakeries, 2 cooper shops, 2 druggist shops, 12 stores, 5 lumber yards, 5 livery stables, 9 taverns, including the ferry-houses; 2 cabinet maker shops, 2 tailor shops, 11 master carpenters, 4 master stone and brick masons, 2 painters and glaziers, a gold and silver plater; 2 printing offices, from each of which a weekly newspaper was issued; 3 physicians, and 6 lawyers.

There were then, as there are now, some beautiful public gardens, visited by the citizens of Philadelphia, to a great extent. It is said, (but we know not on how good authority,) that "the ferry companies then, including those at Cooper's and Kaighn's Points, employed a capital of $60,000, exclusive of real estate, such as wharves, ferry-houses, &c., which was valued at $100,000"—the nett income of which amounted to about $80,000 a year.

Such were the general features of Camden in 1833; since then the number of inhabitants have increased to nearly 7000, and many additional houses, stores, manufactories, &c., have been erected, which give to it a reputation "and a name" abroad, of no ordinary notoriety.

The West Jersey Ferry Company have made extensive improvements, among which is the erection of a new Hotel, the finest in the State.

CAPE MAY COUNTY.

CAPE MAY COUNTY, between Delaware Bay and the Atlantic Ocean, and south of Atlantic county and the eastern part of Cumberland county, is of alluvial formation, and its soil is principally composed of sand, loam and gravel. It is fifteen miles across—from the bay to the ocean—in its widest part, and four miles north of the cape is but seven miles across. It derived its name from Cornelius Jacobese May.*

Large quantities of salt hay is obtained from the marshes, which abound in the county, and lumber forms the principal article of exportation. Very little business is transacted in the county, except at Cape Island during the Summer, when all is gaiety, and the keepers of hotels and boarding houses reap rich harvests. Cape Island, owing to the many advantages it possesses over other places for salt water bathing, has become the most fashionable watering place in America, and is annually visited by thousands, from all parts of the Union.

During the Revolution, many patriotic spirits resided in this county; they formed an oath of allegiance in May, 1778, a copy of which may be seen in Barber & Howe's Historical Collections of New Jersey.

During the late war Capt. Hughes was stationed at the Island with a small body of men, and refused to grant a supply of water to the British fleet, "who were then blockading Delaware bay;" but they threatening to bombard the place, in case of further refusal, he allowed them to obtain their supply, but was soon after arrested, and barely escaped being punished for treason.

Many of the early settlers of the county were engaged in whale fishing. Some portions of the county is in a good state of cultivation, and produces good crops of grain, &c.

CAPE MAY COURT HOUSE is the seat of justice, and is situated nearly central of Middle Township, and about 108 miles from Trenton; it contains one Baptist and one Methodist church, the former of which is quite ancient, being constituted in 1712.

CUMBERLAND COUNTY.

CUMBERLAND COUNTY contains an area of 335,460 square miles. It borders on Delaware Bay ; and prior to 1748, was a continuation of Salem County. It is bounded N. W. by Salem County, N. E. by Atlantic County, E. and S. E. by Atlantic and Cape May Counties, and S. by Delaware Bay. The south-eastern part of Gloucester County touches it on the north. Its name was given it by Governor Belcher, in honor to the Duke of Cumberland. Much marl of good quality is found in the county, and used to advantage in improving the land. There is considerable salt marsh along Delaware Bay, which is used principally for cattle grazing. The soil is composed of sand, loam, clay, &c., and in many places is in a high state of cultivation, producing large crops of wheat, rye, corn, grass, &c.

BRIDGETON, the seat of justice of Cumberland County, is a pleasant and flourishing town, situated in Bridgeton and Cohansey Townships, on both sides of Cohansey Creek, twenty miles from its mouth, and 65 miles from Trenton. It is said to have derived its name from the necessity of having to connect both portions of the town by a drawbridge. At the present time, the larger portion of the town is on the east side of the creek. The principal portion formerly was on the west side. Bridgeton, in its early settlement, bore the name of Cohansey—derived from an Indian chief, who resided there, by the name of Cohan-zick.

The Cumberland Bank, at Bridgeton, was established in 1816. And until 1792 there was no organized church in the town. The advantages possessed by Bridgeton for the promotion of education are probably unequalled by any town of its size in the State; it contains one high and two public schools in good reputation, in which there is taught an average of 600 scholars. Millville, in this county, is quite a flourishing manufacturing town. Glass is the principal article manufactured.

ESSEX COUNTY.

ESSEX COUNTY is bounded N. W. and N. by Morris and Passaic counties, E. by Hudson county, Newark Bay and Staten Island, S. by Middlesex county, and W. by Somerset and Morris counties. It was first formed in 1675, but its boundaries were not definitely settled until January, 1710, and since then its original limits have been considerably reduced; its greatest length from N. to S. is 22 miles; average width 13 miles. The Northern and Western portion is mountainous, the Eastern and Southern interior tolerably level; the land is good, well cultivated by skilful agriculturalists, and produces abundant crops of grain, &c.; near $4,000,000 is invested in manufacturing in the county, and as regards business it stands first in the State. The principal streams are Passaic and Rahway Rivers; the former forms the boundary line between Essex and Morris counties, and passing through the South Eastern part of Passaic county, thence southerly to Newark Bay, forms part of the boundary between Essex and Hudson counties. The principal towns are Newark, Elizabethtown, Elizabethport, Rahway, Plainfield, Bloomfield, Orange and Bellville.

NEWARK, the largest city in the State, and seat of justice of Essex county, was settled in 1666 by emigrants from Connecticut; it is about 50 miles from Trenton and 8 from New York. This tract, among other land, was purchased of the Indians for £130, (New England currency,) 12 blankets and 12 guns. The town was planned by Robert Treat, John Curtis, Jasper Crane and John Treat. It was soon after divided into lots of six acres each, and distributed among such settlers as paid their portion of the purchase money. The Rev. Abraham Pearson commenced preaching here in 1667; he came to America in 1655 and settled at Guilford, Connecticut, but removed to Newark and was Episcopally ordained, but subsequently joined the Presbyterians, and on the institution of Yale College was elected its first President.

In 1745 and 6 considerable difficulty arose, owing to English proprietors laying claim to the lands so honestly obtained by the settlers; the jail was broken open, and such settlers as were confined by English proprietors were set at liberty; in 1777 severe outrages were committed upon the inhabitants by the British troops. The streets of Newark are regularly laid out, and adorned with handsome residences, public squares, &c. The Court House, a beautiful edifice, built of free stone, stands at the west end of the city.

ELIZABETHTOWN derived its name from Lady Elizabeth Carteret; it is one of the oldest settled towns in the State; the College of New Jersey was instituted here in 1746. Jonathan Dickerson was appointed President; he died the following year, and Mr. Burr succeeded him. At the expiration of eight years, (1774 or 5,) the College was removed to Princeton, where it has since remained. About one mile north of Elizabethtown is still standing the residence of Wm. Livingston, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, and Governor of New Jersey from 1776 to 1794.

RAHWAY is said to have derived its name from Rahwack, an Indian Chief, who once resided where the town now stands. Abraham Clark, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, was born near the town February 15th, 1726. There are many large manufacturing establishments in Rahway. It is a stopping place for the cars of New Jersey Railroad, 37 miles from Trenton, and 5 miles from the mouth of the Rahway river, upon which it is situated.

PLAINFIELD, on the Elizabethtown and Somerville Railroad is 12 miles from Elizabethtown and 36 miles from Trenton. It is a large and beautiful village, situated in a fertile valley on Green Brook; clothing is manufactured extensively in this village.

BLOOMFIELD is about four miles N. W. of Newark, on a branch of the Passaic river, and in a section of country that was much infested by marauders during the Revolution, from the British Garrisons at Bergen Heights; it is a very pleasant and healthy location, and contains some highly respectable literary institutions, several manufacturing establishments, &c.

ORANGE is about two and a half miles S. W. of Bloomfield, on the Morris and Essex Railroad; a large trade is carried on here in the manufacture of Hats,* Boots, Shoes, &c.

BELLVILLE, a pleasant place, much resorted to during the summer, is beautifully situated on the Passaic river, about three and a half miles N. of Newark.

SPRINGFIELD is on the Elizabethtown and Morristown Turnpike, about six miles from Elizabethtown, and 45 miles from Trenton; there was a battle fought here the 23d of June, 1780, in which there was killed about 35 Americans and 150 British.

* During the past year over one million hats have been manufactured in Orange, principally for New York merchants.

GLOUCESTER COUNTY.

GLOUCESTER COUNTY, when first formed, extended from the Delaware river to the Atlantic ocean; since 1837 Atlantic and Camden counties have been formed from it; and it now is 27 miles long, 18 miles wide on the Delaware river, and  $6\frac{1}{2}$  wide where it borders on Atlantic county. The Delaware river and Camden county form the North Western, Northern and North Eastern boundaries; Camden and Atlantic counties form the Eastern and South Eastern, and Cumberland and Salem counties the Southern and South Western. The first boundaries of Gloucester county, "though it was laid out in 1677," were not definitely settled until 1709, since which time it has undergone the above named changes. The soil is composed of a mixture of clay and sand, though in many parts the latter is predominant. Much marl is found in the North Western part of the county, and used to advantage in improving the land. The principal villages in the county are Woodbury, Swedesboro', Mullica Hill, Glassboro', Red Bank, &c.

WOODBURY, the seat of justice of Gloucester county, is situated on a creek of the same name; it was settled by Richard Wood, in 1684. The dwelling now occupied by Amos Campbell, in this town, was the head quarters of Lord Cornwallis, when stationed here in 1777. The town contains 1200 inhabitants, and is gradually improving. The Court House is built of brick, the Prison of stone. Stages run continually, throughout the day, to Red Bank, where passengers take the steamboat for Philadelphia.

SWEDESBORO', on Raccoon creek, about six miles from its mouth, and at the head of navigation, was first settled by Swedes, from thence it derived its name, (Swedes-boro'.) In its early settlement it bore the name of Raccoon, from the creek upon which it is situated, but in honor to its settlers, it was soon changed to its present name. A steamboat plies regularly between here and Philadelphia, leaving Swedesboro' Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and Philadelphia Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays; a line of stages runs daily to Woodbury and Red Bank.

MULLICA HILL derived its name from Erick Mullica, a Swede, who was its first settler; it contains one Episcopal, one Baptist, one Methodist Church, and one Hicksite Friends' Meeting House.

GLASSBORO' was settled by seven brothers, Stanger & Co., about the time of the revolution; they erected a glass factory, near where the tavern now stands. At the present time Glassboro' contains three factories for the manufacture of Druggists' glass-ware, porter and mineral water bottles, &c.; also one Episcopal church, one Methodist church, one Reformed Methodist church, one Academy, one Odd-Fellows' Lodge, one Sons of Temperance Division, one Daughters of Temperance Union, one American Mechanics' Council, and nearly 1300 inhabitants.

RED BANK.—Fort Mercer was located here; and, in October, 1777, was the scene of an important battle. It is situated on the Delaware river about six miles below Philadelphia, and has become a pleasant and fashionable place of resort during the summer, owing to its being a high, cool and airy position, and possessing every accommodation for the comfort and convenience of boarders, parties of pleasure, &c. The hotels are fitted up in the best manner, from which the view of the river Delaware, with its shipping constantly passing and repassing, with Gloucester city and Philadelphia in the distance, is one of the finest in this section of the country. Steamboats ply regularly between here and Philadelphia; fare, in summer, 6½ cents; winter, 10 cents.

HUDSON COUNTY.

HUDSON COUNTY, the smallest in the State, was formed from the southern portion of Bergen county, by an act of the Legislature, passed the 22d of February, 1840. Its extreme length is 14 miles; width 7 miles; area 75 square miles. It is bounded North by Bergen county, East by Hudson river and New York Bay, South by the Kill Van Kuhl, which forms its separation from Staten Island; the Passaic river forms the Western boundary, and divides it from Essex and Passaic counties. The country is generally level, with the exception of the Eastern portion, through which the Cloister Mountains extend. The county is divided into two nearly equal parts by the Hackensack river, and produces considerable quantities of wheat, rye, corn, &c. It is divided into five townships, viz: Bergen, Harrison, Jersey City, Van Vorst and North Bergen. There is near $1,000,000 employed in manufacturing in this county.

JERSEY CITY, the seat of justice of Hudson county, is situated about 1 mile from New York city, 8 miles east from Newark, 31 miles from New Brunswick, 56 miles north-east from Trenton, 90 miles from Philadelphia, and 224 miles from Washington city. Population about 7,000.

The streets are generally laid out at right angles, well paved, and lighted with spirit-gas lamps; and being adorned with beautiful shade trees, and favored with an atmosphere cooled and purified in summer, by the refreshing breezes from the bay, renders it an agreeable and delightful place of residence. It is connected with the city of New York by the Jersey City Ferry, the boats of which land passengers at the foot of Courtland street, N. Y., and the foot of Montgomery street, Jersey City, at intervals of fifteen minutes during the day, and every half hour during the night, until 1 o'clock.

It is also the terminus of the New Jersey Railroad, connecting the cities of New York and Philadelphia, and diverging, with various branches, into different sections of the State: Paterson, Morristown, Somerville, &c. The Paterson and Ramapo Railroad, 15 miles in length, which was opened September, 1848, is a continuation of the Paterson and Hudson River Railroad, and extends to Suffern's depot, a point on the Erie Railroad.

The Cunard Line of British and North American Mail Steamers depart from Jersey City semi-monthly; Edward Cunard, Agent; T. M. Nimmo, Clerk.

Jersey City is also a port of entry, annexed to the collection districts of New York, together with all that part of the State of New Jersey which lies north and east of Elizabethtown and Staten Island. The officers of which are—

Day Officers.

H. B. Hagerman, Clerk.

Daniel Buell, “ “

Night Officers.

James Gallaspy, Inspector.
Wm. A. Pollard, “
George E. Cutter, “
Archey Welch, “
Henry Donlevy, “

The Board of Pilot Commissioners of New Jersey keep an office, and hold meetings in Jersey City, where the pilots under their charge, or commission, account monthly. The officers are—JOHN F. ELLIS, President.

Commissioners.

Lawrence Kearny,
Ezra Nye,

W. T. Rodgers,
Lewis Bosworth,

W. G. Hackstaff,
Garret Hieu.

Jersey City contains five churches, viz: one Episcopal, one R. Dutch, one Congregational, one Methodist, and one Catholic. It is also well supplied with the means of education, the public school being under the direction of the Common Council of the City, and well sustained. Dr. A. T. Smith, Principal.

HOBOKEN, next in size to Jersey City, was formerly called Hoebuck. It is a favorite place of resort with the citizens of New York, being only one mile up the Hudson, and decorated with the most beautiful shade trees. The tide of improvement is rapidly progressing, and Hoboken is likely to become one of the handsomest towns in the State.

It contains an academy, which, although lately established, bids fair, on account of its pleasant location, to rank among the first in the State. Lewis J. Bridgman, Principal.

HUNTERDON COUNTY.

HUNTERDON COUNTY is bounded N. by Warren and Morris counties, S. and S. W. by Mercer county and the Delaware river, E. by Morris and Somerset counties, and W. by the Delaware river. Prior to 1713, it was included in Burlington county; but during that year was taken therefrom, and has since undergone considerable change. When first formed, it included Warren, Sussex, Morris and Mercer counties; but now, its original limits are reduced to thirty-two miles in length and twenty-three in width. The soil in the county varies, being in some parts principally red shale, other clayey and rocky, and in other, clayey loam; the latter is generally well cultivated, and produces excellent crops of grain, grass, &c. Much limestone is found in the county, and many farmers have kilns erected for burning it; some expressly for their own use, others for exportation to the southern counties. Much copper ore is found of superior quality, and two mines in the vicinity of Flemington are now in successful operation. The northern part of the county is mountainous, some of which overlook beautiful and fertile valleys, interspersed with handsome villages, (the houses of which are mostly painted white,) presenting scenes of unrivalled beauty. The principal towns and villages are Flemington, Lambertsville, Milford, Frenchtown, Clinton, New Germantown, &c.

FLEMINGTON, the seat of justice of Hunterdon county, is situated in Raritan township, in the vicinity of the copper mines, twenty-four miles north of Trenton, and on the main travelling and stage road from Trenton to Belvidere. It has direct communication, per stage, with Philadelphia, Trenton, Lambertsville, New Brunswick and Belvidere; and is pleasantly situated upon a fertile plain, near a high eminence, from the summit of which, a full view of the village may be obtained. The houses are principally built upon one street; most of them are fine mansions, surrounded by choice shrubbery, and presenting an air of health and comfort much to be envied by those whose business confines them within the narrow walls of a city. The Court House is built of stone, with Ionic columns, and presents a Grecian front; a portion of the building is also used as a jail.

A gentleman by the name of Fleming, settled here some time previous to the revolution, and from him the village derived its name.

LAMBERTSVILLE is built upon a site formerly known as "Coryel's Ferry,"* (a place of some note during the revolution,) on the Delaware River, opposite New Hope. It is the largest village in the county, and owing to its advantages for manufacturing, is rapidly improving. The feeder of the Delaware and Raritan Canal passes through it, and is navigable for sloops, schooners, &c. A covered bridge over the Delaware connects Lambertsville with New Hope.

* A short time previous to the victory at Trenton, a portion of the American troops crossed at Coryel's Ferry, as they were retreating through New Jersey.

MERCER COUNTY.

MERCER COUNTY is bounded N. W. by Hunterdon county, N. E. and E. by Somerset, Middlesex and Monmouth counties; S. and S. W. by Monmouth county, Burlington county and the Delaware river; and W. by Delaware river and Hunterdon county. It was formed in 1838, from Hunterdon, Middlesex and Burlington counties, and derived its name in honor to General Mercer, who fell at the battle of Princeton, January 3d, 1777. The county is about 21 miles long and 12 wide; the northern part is hilly, the southern tolerably level; the soil is good, well cultivated, and produces excellent crops of grain, grass, fruit, &c. Stony Brook and the Assunpink Creek and its tributaries, are the principal streams flowing through the county; the former is a branch of the Raritan river, the latter a branch of the Delaware river.

TRENTON, the capitol of New Jersey, and seat of justice of Mercer county, derived its name from Col. Wm. Trent, an enterprising trader, by whom it was founded in 1716 or 1718. Trent died December 29th, 1724.

The following description of Trenton, (though varying much from the present condition of the city,) will doubtless prove interesting. It was given in 1748, by "Kalm," a Swedish traveller, and is the earliest description extant.

"Trenton is a long, narrow town, situated at some distance from the Delaware, on a sandy plain. It is reckoned 30 miles from Philadelphia. It has two small churches, one for the people belonging to the Church of England, the other for the Presbyterians. The houses are partly built of stone, though most of them are made of wood or plank, commonly two stories high, together with a cellar below the building, and a kitchen under ground close to the cellar. The houses stand at a moderate distance from one another; they are commonly built so that the street passes along one side of the houses, while gardens of different dimensions bound the other side; in each garden is a draw-well; the place is considered very healthy. Our landlord told us that 22 years ago, when he first settled here, (1726,) there was hardly more than one house; but from that time Trenton has increased so much that there are at present near an hundred houses. The houses were within divided into several rooms by their partitions of boards. The inhabitants of the place carried on a small trade with goods, which they got from Philadelphia, but their chief gain consisted in the arrival of the numerous travellers between that city and New York, for they are commonly brought by the Trenton yachts from Philadelphia to Trenton, or from thence to Philadelphia. But from Trenton, further to New Brunswick the travellers go in wagons, which set out every day for that place. Several of the inhabitants also subsist on the carriage of all sorts of goods, which are sent in great quantities, either from Philadelphia to New York, or from thence to the former place—for between Philadelphia and Trenton all goods go by water, but between Trenton and New Brunswick they are all carried by land, and both these conveniences belong to the people of this town. For the yachts which go between this place and the capitol of Pennsylvania, they usually pay a shilling and sixpence, Pennsylvania currency, per person, and every one pays beside for his baggage. Every passenger must provide meat and drink for himself, and pay some settled fare. Between Trenton and New Brunswick a person pays 2s. and 6d., and the baggage is likewise paid for separately."

Thus we have a description of Trenton in its early settlement, when it contained but one hundred houses; at present it has a population of nearly fourteen thousand, including South Trenton. In 1840 its inhabitants numbered less than seven thousand. Thus we see within ten years it has doubled itself in size. It is still rapidly improving, and bids fair to become one of our largest inland cities. Its beautiful and healthy location makes it desirable as a place of residence, whilst its extensive water power renders it equally so as a manufacturing place. The Delaware and Raritan Canal and Camden and Amboy Railroad pass through the eastern portion of the town. The feeder of the Delaware and Raritan Canal passes through the northern portion, and the raceway or water power constructed by the Trenton Falls Company, (who were incorporated by an act of the Legislature, 16th February, 1831,) passes along the bank of the Delaware, and is six miles in length.

Trenton will ever stand prominent in the annals of history, as being the scene of one of the most important battles of the Revolution, which was fought here, on the 26th of December, 1776.

PRINCETON was incorporated as a borough in 1812 or 1813. It is situated in a township of the same name, within half a mile of the Delaware and Raritan Canal, and the Trenton and Jersey City Railroad; and is ten miles from Trenton, forty miles from Philadelphia and forty-nine from New York. It contains about 2,500 inhabitants, and is situated on an elevated portion of land, which commands an extensive eastern view. In 1757 the College of New Jersey was removed here from Newark, "it having been removed from Elizabethtown to Newark in 1747." It was incorporated in 1746, and has since ranked as one of the first literary institutions of the country. It has a library of 8,000 volumes, and the Rev. James Carnahan is at present President of the institution.

THE THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY was founded by the Presbyterian Church of the United States; it was commenced in 1813, and completed in 1818; the plan was formed in 1811; it is built of stone, four stories high, 150 feet long, and 50 wide. This institution has free use of the College library, although it is in no way connected with it. Independent of these higher institutions, Princeton has a number of Classical and Common Schools. Nassau Hall is the principal building of the College of New Jersey, and was named by Governor Belcher in honor to King William the III., who was a branch of the illustrious house of Nassau, and who delivered the British nation from the evils of "Popery" and "Slavery." The electric machine used by Doctor Franklin belongs to the College, and is kept in the Philosophic Hall. The battle in which General Mercer fell was fought at Princeton, on the 3d of January, 1777.

RICHARD STOCKTON, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, was born near Princeton the 1st of October, 1730, and graduated at the College of New Jersey in 1748. COMMODORE WM. BAINBRIDGE, U. S. N., was born here May 7th, 1774.

Princeton is located in a good agricultural and healthy section of country, and contains many very handsome private residences.

PENNINGTON is on the stage road leading from Trenton to Flemington, eight miles from the former and sixteen from the latter place; it has two seminaries, one male and one female; also, an academy for the instruction of the children of the village. Miss Abigail Moore in her will, appropriated $4,000 to the academy, the interest of which was to be appropriated in educating the poor children of the village. The seminaries of Pennington are under the patronage of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY was first formed in 1682; the boundaries were altered in 1709, 1713, and in 1790. It is now 24 miles long, 12 miles wide, and is bounded North by Essex county; East by Staten Island Sound and Raritan Bay; South East, South and South West by Monmouth and Mercer counties, and West and North West by Somerset county. Raritan, South, and Millstone rivers are the principal streams in the county. The Bordentown and Jersey City, and Camden and Amboy Railroads pass through the county, and greatly facilitate the transportation of produce to the New York markets. The Delaware and Raritan Canal passes through the western part of the county. Near New Brunswick copper ore is found, and many years ago mines were opened and worked, but for several years all mining operations have been suspended.

The city of New Brunswick was incorporated in 1784; it is the seat of justice of Middlesex county, and is beautifully situated on the western bank of the Raritan river, 14 miles from its mouth; one Daniel Cooper is the first inhabitant in this vicinity of whom we have any account; he kept a ferry where the Post road crossed the river. At that time, the site upon which New Brunswick is built was generally known as "Prigmore's Swamp." The portion of the city lying in close proximity to the river is low, and the streets irregular. Albany street derived its name from some Dutch who removed here from Albany in 1730, and settled principally upon this street. Kalm, the Swedish traveller, visited New Brunswick in 1748, and gives an interesting account of the town at that date.* The commanding eminence upon which Rutgers' College is situated, was presented to that institution by the Hon. James Parker, of Amboy; the building was completed in 1811. This institution was chartered by George III. in 1770, and, in honor to his Queen, it was called Queen's College, which name it retained until 1825, when it was changed by the legislature of the state to Rutgers' College, in honor to Col. Henry Rutgers, one of its contributors. Owing to pecuniary difficulties, the institution was not in operation until 1781. The Rev. J. R. Hardenberg was elected first President of the institution in 1786. New Brunswick was at one time in possession of the British troops; it was evacuated by them in June, 1777. This city has considerable water power, and is becoming quite a manufacturing place. It contains many enterprising citizens, and propositions are now on foot to have the city lighted with gas.

PERTH AMBOY is pleasantly situated at the head of Raritan Bay, and is a port of entry of Middlesex county. When first noticed by the East Jersey proprietors as being a favorable place to locate a town, it bore the name of "Ambo Point," after which it was named Perth, in honor to "James," Earl of Perth; it was first called Perth Amboy about the year 1698. The town was first laid out in 1683, by Samuel Groom; he divided it into 150 lots; and it soon became a favorite place with the proprietors of East Jersey. It was the seat of government, and was first incorporated under royal government in 1718. It is generally believed the site of the town was selected by Gov. Carteret; and for a long time the proprietors were exceedingly energetic in endeavoring to have this place compete with New York, but owing to the peculiar advantages of the latter place they were unable to do much. Amboy has a fine port; its situation is pleasant and healthy, and much resorted to during Summer. It is about 36 miles from Trenton, 10 from New Brunswick, and 25 from New York.

SOUTH AMBOY is situated at the mouth of the Raritan river, and at the terminus of the Camden and Amboy Railroad. Stoneware is the principal article manufactured; it is made from a clay, of superior quality, found in this vicinity.

MONMOUTH COUNTY.

MONMOUTH COUNTY was first established in 1675; the boundaries were altered in 1709-'10, 1713-'14, and in 1850—when Ocean county was formed from it and reduced it to less than half of its former size; it is now about 28 miles long, with an average width of 20 miles. It is bounded N. W. and N. by Middlesex county and Raritan Bay; E. by the Atlantic Ocean; S. by Ocean county, and W. by Mercer and Middlesex counties; the extreme western corner of the county merely touches upon Burlington county, in the vicinity of Crosswick's creek. This county contains much land of superior quality, and the inhabitants are principally engaged in agricultural pursuits; extensive beds of marl are found in the county, and it seems well adapted to keeping up that high state of cultivation in which we find many of the farms. This county, being of easy access from New York, suffered much during the Revolution from the royalists, who frequently came here to plunder. It was also infested by numerous gangs of refugees, whose daring deeds of cruelty seem almost impossible to have been committed by human beings. The county was originally settled by Dutch, Scotch, and some New England settlers who removed here in 1664.

FREEHOLD, the county town or seat of justice of Monmouth county, is situated on an extremely fertile and somewhat elevated plain, about 29 miles from Trenton and 33 miles from Mount Holly, in Burlington county; this village was long known as Monmouth Court House, which name is frequently used at the present day. One of the severest battles of the Revolution was fought near this place on the 28th of June, 1777; the battle-ground is on the road leading from Freehold to Englishtown; the church standing near it was built in 1752; in the grave yard adjoining the church there are tomb stones still standing, dated as far back as 1713; some of them are shattered, and it is said to have been done at this memorable battle. Freehold is a pleasant, healthy, and retired village, containing many handsome private residences. The court house and offices are built of brick, and were erected in 1800, at an expense of $28,000. Freehold has two fine literary institutions, the Freehold Female Seminary and Freehold Institute for boys. A. R. Richardson is principal of the former, and Oliver R. Willis the latter. The village contains five churches: one Episcopal, one Methodist, one Baptist, one Presbyterian and one Dutch Reformed; it has about 600 inhabitants, and daily communication with New York, Philadelphia, Trenton, Princeton, &c.

KEY PORT is located on the Raritan Bay, twenty-five miles from New York City, with which it is connected by steamboats running between the two places, daily, during the year.

Within a few years the village has grown very rapidly; and during the summer season, its population is increased by a large number of visitors from New York and other cities, for the purpose of enjoying the abundant supply of shell-fish, and fruits of every kind, for which this section is famous, together with the fine fishing, sporting and bathing privileges of the place.

The bathing facilities are especially inviting and agreeable, securing to persons of all ages the advantages of bathing in pure sea water, without the least danger. The descent of the beach is very gradual, and the surf so gentle, that small children may be allowed to bathe at all times with perfect safety.

The business of the place is large and rapidly on the increase. A large number of vessels are employed in the oyster trade. The village contains three hotels, three churches, eighteen stores and shops of different kinds, lumber yards, brick kilns, ship yards, &c., in active operation.

MIDDLETOWN POINT is situated at the head of Matavin Inlet, two miles from Raritan Bay, and is the principal outlet for the produce of Monmouth county. Hundreds of loaded teams are seen daily entering the village, to deposit their freight for transportation to New York. It contains a bank, an academy, three churches, with an Episcopal church about to be erected, several mercantile establishments and three hotels; considerable manufacturing is also carried on. Population about one thousand.

RED BANK is situated on the Navisink river, five miles from its mouth. It is a healthful and pleasant location, and contains three hotels, three churches, Episcopal, Baptist and Methodist; three schools, one public and two select, and twelve stores. The steamer John Hart plies daily between this place and New York. Fare fifty cents. Considerable freighting is carried on here, and the place is connected with Freehold, by a line of stages, which leaves on the arrival of the steamboat from New York.

ALLENTOWN is located ten miles from Trenton, twenty miles from Freehold, and eight miles from Bordentown. It contains several stores, four churches, and two public schools; manufacturing to a considerable extent is carried on here. Population about eight hundred.

THE NORTH AMERICAN PHALANX,

Is the name of an association or corporation organized in 1843, and located in a pleasant and fertile part of Monmouth county, nine miles from Freehold, the county seat; five miles from Red Bank, eleven miles from Key Port, and about forty miles from New York. Several branches of business are carried on by the association, which is organized upon the following basis:—

Joint Stock Property Co-operative Labor Association of Families.

Distribution of Property—Mutual Guarantees—Honors according to Usefulness—Unity of Interests.

The association is carrying on agricultural pursuits, a flouring mill, saw mill, blacksmithing, shoemaking, carpentering and other mechanical arts. It has its separate school district, drawing its share of public funds, and school is kept throughout the year. It has its physicians, and lectures are given upon scientific, moral and religious subjects. The domain consists of six hundred and seventy-three acres of land lying in the marl district; and the industrial organization is compact and efficient.

JOHN BACKLIN, President, CHAS. SEARS, Secretary, J. B. AUGELL, Treasurer.

Address, Red Bank Post Office.

MORRIS COUNTY.

MORRIS COUNTY was formed from Hunterdon county, by an act of Assembly, March 15th, 1838-9; Sussex and Warren counties were included in its original limits. It was named in honor of Lewis Morris, who, at that period was Governor of the Province. This county is well watered, and is rich in iron ore; it has many iron manufactories and foundries in successful operation. The northern part of the county is mountainous. Trap rocks are also scattered in various parts of it. Its extreme length is 31 miles; average width, 21 miles. Besides the extensive beds of iron ore, there is also found considerable quantities of copper, zinc, plumbago, copperas, manganese, ochres of various colors, and numerous other minerals.

"Schooley's Mountain," a popular and healthy place of resort during the summer, is situated in this county, about 20 miles from Morristown, 22 miles from Somerville, and 50 miles from New York. The Mineral Spring on this mountain is considered the best in the State.

The Morris and Essex Railroad connects Morristown with Newark, and the Morris Canal passes nearly centrally through the county.

MORRISTOWN, about 50 miles from Trenton, and 19 from Newark, is the seat of justice of Morris county, and is one of the handsomest villages in the State. It contains many large and beautiful mansions, a handsome public square, and is supplied with pure spring water, which is conveyed to the village by an aqueduct from a spring about a mile distant. The streets of the village cross at right angles, and are generally well shaded. The American army, under General Washington, had their winter quarters at this village in January, 1777, and in 1779-80. The house occupied by Washington as his head quarters, is still standing, on the Newark and Morristown Turnpike, about half a mile east of the square. The Court House of Morristown was built at an expense of $25,000, and is one of the handsomest in the State. The town contains several churches, stores, a bank, &c., and near 2,500 inhabitants. Speedwell Iron Works are near the town, and rank with the first in the State.

The village of DOVER is in Randolph township, about eight miles north-west of Morristown, on the Rockaway river; it is surrounded by mountains, and is a thriving manufacturing town. The Rockaway river affords it an extensive water power. The Suckasunny Iron Mine, renowned for its superior ore, is near the village; it was first taken up by Joseph Kirkbride, in 1717; prior to that period the ore was free to all. Dover contains three churches, (Episcopal, Presbyterian and Methodist,) eight or nine stores, a bank, several extensive iron manufactories, and between 500 and 600 inhabitants.

OCEAN COUNTY.

OCEAN COUNTY, formed from Monmouth county at the recent session of the Legislature, (1850,) is bounded N. by Monmouth county, E. and S. E. by the Atlantic Ocean, and S. and W. by Burlington county. The soil in most parts is light and sandy; and considerable coal and lumber is transported to the New York and Philadelphia markets.

TOM'S RIVER, chosen as seat of justice of Ocean county, is a flourishing village, located on a river bearing the same name, five miles from its mouth, at the head of sloop navigation; a large number of vessels are engaged in the exportation of lumber, wood and coal. The village is situated about half-way between Freehold and Mannahawkin, and contains five mercantile stores, two hotels, one grist and one saw mill, several mechanical shops and two churches. The county buildings are now in course of erection, and the village contains about 400 inhabitants.

MANNAHAWKIN, a post village in Stafford township, Ocean county, 24 miles south of Tom's river, and eight north of Tuckerton, containing three stores, two churches, (Baptist and Methodist,) one academy, one grist mill, one saw mill, a carding mill, &c. A line of stages communicates tri-weekly with this village, Tom's River and Freehold; another with Tuckerton, Medford, Mount Holly and Philadelphia. The Mansion of Health is situated on Long Beach, opposite this village, and is much resorted to during summer, for its fine sea-bathing advantages.

PASSAIC COUNTY.

PASSAIC COUNTY is about thirty miles in extreme length, and varies from three to sixteen miles in breadth. It was formed from the northern part of Essex and western part of Bergen counties, in February, 1837. It is bounded north by Bergen county and a portion of Orange county, New York; east by Bergen and Hudson counties, south by Essex and Morris counties, and west by Sussex county. In this county, near the village of Little Falls, there is an extensive quarry of red sand stone; and in the northern part of the county, much iron ore of superior quality is found, and a number of forges are in successful operation. Some parts of the county are well adapted to agricultural pursuits; but its chief importance is derived from its extensive manufactories, most of which are located at Paterson. The Morris Canal passes through the southern part of the county, and the Ramapo and Paterson Railroad, through the eastern interior, in connection with the New York and Erie Railroad.

PATERSON, the seat of justice of Passaic county, may be considered to owe its origin as a manufacturing town, to the energy and genius of Alexander Hamilton, who, by active exertion, prevailed upon some enterprising citizens of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, (about the year 1791,) to associate themselves, for the purpose of establishing useful manufactories. Paterson derived its name in honor to Governor William Paterson, who signed the company's charter. The act of incorporation gave a city charter, with jurisdiction over a tract of six square miles. Passaic Falls, at Paterson, present a scene of unrivalled beauty, and are much resorted to by citizens during the summer, partly owing to the wild and romantic scenery, and partly to the cool, healthy and airy position.

Paterson, at the time the first factory was erected, contained only ten houses. It now contains fourteen or fifteen churches, a philosophical society of young men, a mechanics' society, for the advancement of mechanical arts, (both of which have respectable libraries; the latter has a philosophical apparatus,) several extensive factories, stores, schools, an academy, &c., and has a population of near twelve thousand, including Manchester, which is immediately opposite, and connected with Paterson by two bridges. The village of Aquackanonck is situated on the Passaic River, at the head of sloop navigation, sixteen miles from its mouth, five miles south-east of Paterson, and on the Paterson and Hudson River Railroad.

The village of Little Falls derived its name from the rapids in the river, at the point where it is situated. There is here an extensive quarry of red sand stone of superior quality. The stone used in building Trinity Church, in New York, was furnished from this quarry. This village is four miles south-west of Paterson, where the Morris Canal crosses Passaic river.

SALEM COUNTY.

SALEM COUNTY is bounded north by Gloucester county, east by Gloucester and Cumberland counties, south by Cumberland county, south-west and west by Delaware Bay and River. It was named by John Fenwick, in 1675. Its boundaries were definitely settled in 1710; and in 1748, Cumberland county was formed from it. The surface of the county is generally level, the soil is principally composed of light sand, occasionally mixed with clay or loam; and in some parts is exceedingly productive. The extreme length of the county, north and south, is twenty-eight miles; breadth, east and west, twenty-five miles. It was originally settled by Dutch and Swedes, who gave the name of Freasburg to their place of settlement.

SALEM CITY was incorporated in 1695, and is the seat of justice of Salem county. The first Court of Sessions was held here on the 17th of September, 1706. It is situated on the east bank of Salem river, about three and a half miles from its mouth. It contains from twenty-five hundred to three three thousand inhabitants, and has daily communication with Philadelphia, by stages and steamboats. Salem became a port of entry in 1682, and commanded a good share of foreign trade. The first city officers were chosen in March, 1693, under the act of incorporation. It contains a number of churches, stores, a bank, a lyceum, an academy, two libraries, two newspaper printing offices, and four hotels, (one temperance.) The houses are well built, and the streets are beautifully decorated with shade trees, and the town presents a thriving and business-like appearance, unsurpassed by any in the State.

ALLOWAYSTOWN is located at the head of navigation, on Alloway's creek, six miles east of Salem. It derives its name from an Indian chief named Alloway, who lived in the vicinity at the time of Fenwick's arrival, 1675. It is quite a flourishing village, containing two hotels, two churches, several mercantile stores, mills, mechanical shops, &c.; ship building is also carried on to some considerable extent.

WOODSTOWN is situated on the north bank of Salem river, nine miles north-east of Salem. It derives its appellation from Jackanias Wood, who was an early settler here. It is a very thriving village, near which are quite extensive marl beds, affording a source from which the lands in this region have been much enriched within the past few years. The village contains several stores, two Friends' meeting houses, a Baptist church and two Methodist churches.

SOMERSET COUNTY.

THIS is the most central county in the State, and as early as 1688 was set off from Middlesex county. Since its separation its boundaries have been several times changed, but at present Morris county forms its northern boundary, Essex and Middlesex its eastern, Mercer its southern, and Hunterdon its western.

It has a variety of surface and soil; the southern and central portion being level or undulating, and composed of sandy loam, stiff loam, clay, &c., whilst the northern portion is mountainous, or hilly, and composed of limestone; it is all, however, quite fertile, producing various and abundant crops. It is well watered by the Raritan and its tributaries, by which it is divided into several sections. It is also intersected by the Delaware and Raritan Canal, which follows the Millstone river, in this county, to its junction with the Raritan, three miles south-east of Somerville, whence it follows the Raritan to New Brunswick.

The county was early settled by the Dutch, to whose untiring industry its present fertility and fruitfulness is much indebted. Its present population is about 18,000.

SOMERVILLE, the seat of justice, is a beautiful village, located near the centre of the county, on the valley of the Raritan river, 11 miles north-west from New Brunswick, 33 miles from Easton, 28 miles north-east from Trenton, and about 200 miles from Washington city. The village was, up to 1810, called Raritan, when its present name was given it, since which it has grown very rapidly. It is principally built on one street, running in an easterly direction. The railroad from Elizabethport, designed to extend to Easton on the Delaware, passes through this village, and is much travelled during the warm season by visitors to the Schooley's Mountain Spring.

The village contains four churches, an academy, county jail, two newspaper printing offices, three hotels, twelve mercantile stores, and several mechanical and manufacturing establishments. Population, about 2,000.

BOUND BROOK, located near a stream, from which it derives its name, is a thriving village, and, including Middle Brook, extends a mile in length. It is seven miles from New Brunswick and four from Somerville, to which it is connected by the railroad. It contains four churches, an academy, four hotels, several stores, mechanical shops, &c. &c., and the purchase and freighting of grain is the principal business done here at certain seasons of the year.

SUSSEX COUNTY.

SUSSEX COUNTY was formed from Morris county, in 1753, and forms the extreme northern point of the State. Its original limits were reduced in 1824, by the formation of Warren county; its extreme length from north-east to south-west is 34 miles, breadth, 30 miles.

The county is well watered by the Paulinskill, Pequest, Flatkill, Wallkill, and a number of smaller streams. It is bounded North by Orange county, New York, East by Passaic and Morris counties, South by Morris and Warren counties, and West by the Delaware river. The Wawayanda and Hamburg Mountains pass through the eastern part of the county, and the Blue Mountains through the western part; the central portion is tolerably level. This is one of the best agricultural counties in the State, and produces excellent crops of wheat, Indian corn, &c.; also, large quantities of superior butter, much of which is conveyed to the New York markets. Iron ore and zinc are found in large quantities in the mountains on the east. Much marble, and a great variety of choice minerals are found in the county; it is also interspersed with beautiful small lakes or ponds, the most interesting of which are the White Ponds, so called from the shores and bottoms of them being covered with white shells. Many of these lakes are upon the highest hills, or mountains. The principal manufactures are iron, in which there is a large capital invested.

NEWTON is the seat of justice of this county, and is located nearly central of a township bearing the same name; it is a beautiful and thriving village, encircled by hills, and presenting an appearance at once beautiful and attractive; it is about 54 miles from New York, 65 from Trenton, and 95 from Philadelphia. This village is remarkably healthy, and has a population of about 1,200. It contains a public library, a lyceum, three academies, and three churches.

Moody's rocks* are located about two miles south of this village; they derived their name from Bonel Moody, a Tory leader, who made them his place of concealment during the day.

SPARTA is a flourishing village on the Walkill, 7 miles east of Newton, it contains a female seminary, two churches, a number of iron forges and other manufactures, and about 500 inhabitants.

There are also a number of other beautiful and flourishing villages in Sussex county, viz: Deckertown, Upper and Lower Lafayette, Franklin, Stanhope, Ogdensburg, Hamburg, &c.

* An interesting account of these rocks may be seen in Barber & Howe's Historical Collections of New Jersey.

WARREN COUNTY.

WARREN COUNTY is bounded N. E. by Sussex county, E. and S. E. by Morris and Hunterdon, S. by Hunterdon, and W. by Delaware river. This county is about 32 miles in length, and 18 in extreme width ; it originally was a portion of Sussex county, from which it was formed in 1824. The Blue Mountains range along the north-western boundary, and the Musconetcong the south-western ; the surface of the county is mountainous, the intervening valleys exceedingly fertile, and present from the summits of the surrounding mountains, rich and varied scenes of unrivalled beauty ; the land is in a high state of cultivation, and well watered by the following streams: Musconetcong, Pohatcong, Lopatcong, Pequest and Paulinskill, all of which flow into the Delaware. The Morris Canal commences at Philipsburg, on the Delaware, and passes through the south-eastern and eastern part of the county, leaving it near the north-eastern angle. The Delaware Water Gap, bordering on Knowlton township, in this county, truly ranks with the most beautiful of American scenery.*

BELVIDERE, seat of justice of Warren county, is pleasantly situated at the confluence of the Delaware and Pequest rivers, about 200 miles from the mouth of the former ; the town is handsomely laid out in squares, and the buildings, both public and private, are neatly constructed, and ornamented with beautiful shade trees, and choice shrubbery. Its location is beautiful and healthy, and one possessing many advantages for manufacturing purposes, it is surrounded by fertile limestone country, and contains about 1,400 inhabitants, county buildings, four churches, two academies, ten stores, two large merchant mills, one foundry, three saw mills, two newspaper printing offices, a bank, &c.

Warren county contains a number of other beautiful and thriving villages, viz : Hackettstown, Hope, Asbury, Philipsburg, Stewartsville, Washington, Johnsonsburg, &c., &c.

* For description, see Barber & Howe's Historical Collections of New Jersey.

UNITED SONS OF AMERICA.

This order originated in Pennsylvania in the year 1845. It is beneficial in its character, and supports the cause of general education. None can become members unless they subscribe to Native American principles. There is a General, or State Camp, which holds monthly sessions in Washington Hall, Camden: John R. Thompson, H. C., and Samuel Scull, D. M., both of Camden. There are, also, four subordinate Camps, three in Camden and one in Gloucester, meeting weekly. The order is rapidly increasing in West Jersey. There are fifteen Camps in Pennsylvania, and several in Illinois and Kentucky.

IN

COMMENCING WITH

---

BLOOMFIELD INSTITUTE.

BLOOMFIELD INSTITUTE.

This institution is situated in Bloomfield, New Jersey, within two hours' ride of New York, via Newark. It is easy of access by railroad, steamboat and stage, several times a day. The location has been chosen on account of the beauty, salubrity and retirement of the place, as well as the intelligence and morality of the community. A large and commodious building has been recently erected expressly for the purpose, in a retired part of the village, fitted up with a view to afford the best accommodations. In the arrangements of the family, the Pupils are treated with the same kindness as the children of the Principal, and the most careful attention bestowed upon their health, manners, morals and intellectual improvement.

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION

Forms a part of every day's exercises, and receives special attention on the Sabbath. The government and instruction of the school are under the constant supervision of the principal. Young men are fitted for any stage of their collegiate course; and for every variety of business pursuits.

Instruction in French, Spanish and German languages; also, in Drawing and in Music, with the Piano Forte, at professors' prices. Attention given to Vocal Music without extra charge.

Terms from $90 to $100 per term, according to studies pursued, payable quarterly in advance. This charge includes all ordinary expenses, excepting books and stationery. The year is divided into two terms of twenty-two weeks each; commencing on the first day of May and November.

N. B. Every article of clothing, &c., should be plainly marked with the name of the owner, and a list of all his articles pasted in the top of his trunk.

Rev. E. SEYMOUR, Principal.

MOUNT PROSPECT INSTITUTE, WEST BLOOMFIELD, NEW JERSEY.

This School is located in West Bloomfield, N. J., fifteen miles distant from New York City, and six from Newark, upon a commanding eminence of 800 feet above the level of the ocean, from which a clear view is obtained of New York, Brooklyn, the Bay, and the surrounding country. This location, for retirement, health, salubrity of atmosphere, and beauty of mountain scenery, is not surpassed by any in the country. It is easy of access, having direct communication with New York four times a day. The object of this institution is to prepare young gentlemen for entering college, or a business life, by a thorough and systematic course of instruction. The principal does not desire a large school, but a select number of Pupils, well descended, and willing to be guided in the path of virtue and usefulness. In order to secure and retain desirable members of this school, no vicious or unprincipled boy is received, and no one retained in the school whose influence is immoral, or in any way injurious to his associates. The Pupils enjoy the comfort of a home in the family of the Principal, being invited to the parlor, where they associate with other members of the family, and those who frequently visit the institution.

THE GOVERNMENT OF THE SCHOOL

Is conducted on strictly religious principles, and the pupils are controlled by appeals to their moral feelings, rather than by fear of punishment. The Bible is the standard of morals, and each Pupil is required to study it daily; also, to attend church with the Principal on the Sabbath. Being desirous of securing a proper degree of correspondence in dress, and prevent some of the evils arising from different styles of clothing in the same family, a uniform dress has been adopted for the school. The year is divided into sessions of five months each, commencing on the first of May and November. It is desired that the Pupils should not be absent during the session, and that parents should visit them at the institution.

TERMS.

No scholar will be received for less time than one quarter, and no deduction will be made for voluntary absence.

Each article of clothing must be marked with the owner's name, and an inventory placed in each trunk of all the articles he brings to the school.

The charges, including every expense for the year, will be $250.

Payments will be required quarterly in advance.

WARREN HOLT, Principal and Proprietor.

☞ A box will be found at 73 Courtland street, N. Y., marked with the name of the institution; any package deposited in this box before one o'clock, P. M., will be safely carried to the school on the same day.

THE UNIFORM OF THE SCHOOL.

The coat and pantaloons of very dark blue cloth; the coat, single breasted, to button to the throat, with ten gilt buttons, two upon the collar, placed three inches back—the collar to turn over, with the corners round.

For summer, the dress suit is the dark blue coat and white pantaloons. That for common should be grey, made of the material known as "youth's mixt." For very warm weather, brown linnen or drilling.

Suits are made by Messrs. Thorne & Owen, 414 Broadway, New York, where the buttons, made expressly for the school, may be obtained.

Caps of a particular pattern, designed for the school, are made at 148 Nassau street, New York, and 201 Chestnut street, Philadelphia.

N. B. Those entering the school are not expected to discard their every-day clothing, but when worn out to renew it with the uniform of the school.

FREEHOLD INSTITUTE.

OFFICERS OF GOVERNMENT.—OLIVER R. WILLIS, A. M., Principal; SAMUEL T. FIELD, A. B., Vice Principal.

INSTRUCTORS.—Oliver R. Willis, A. M., Mathematics and Natural Science; Samuel T. Field, A. B., Ancient Languages; Mons. Ferdinand Subit, French and German; Charles Jemison, Assistant in English Department; Charles A. Walters, Penmanship; Henry Weatherly, Piano Forte; Edward H. Redfield, Violin and Flute.

THE INSTITUTE

Is located in a retired part of the village of Freehold, which is accessible from New York and Philadelphia, by Camden and Amboy railroad, and stages from Hightstown and Jamesburg. The BUILDINGS are new, neat and commodious, and were erected expressly for the accommodation of a Boarding School. THE APARTMENTS are spacious and airy, with high ceilings, and ventilating flues in the walls. THE DORMITORIES are so connected with the rooms of the Principal and Vice Principal that a low whisper can be heard; hence no opportunity is afforded the pupils to engage in any improper conduct or conversation after retiring, and the morals of the boys in the bed-room are effectually protected. An abundant supply of pure water is thrown by a forcing pump into an elevated reservoir, from which it is carried into every part of the house by pipes. Well arranged Wash and Bath Rooms, to which the pupils have access at all times, are provided with every convenience for their use. A large Play Ground connected with the Institute, has upon it a well furnished Gymnasium, in which every pupil is required to exercise daily, under the supervision of a teacher. THE COURSE OF STUDY IS EXTENDED. Boys are thoroughly fitted for commercial, scientific, or other pursuits in life, or prepared for any class in College. The year is divided into two sessions of twenty-two weeks each; the winter session commences on the last Wednesday in October, and the summer session on the first Wednesday in May. Expenses for board, tuition, washing, mending, fuel, lights, bed and bedding, $208 per year, payable quarterly, in advance. French and Music are not included in the above expense but are extra charges.  Catalogues with full information, references, &c., may be had by addressing the Principal.

FREEHOLD YOUNG LADIES' SEMINARY.

A. RICHARDSON, A. M., Principal.

This institution has been in highly successful operation during five years, and is at present full. It is designed to be not in name merely, but in reality, a Home Boarding School. No pains or expense is spared necessary to secure to Young Ladies the highest moral, intellectual, physical and social advantages. The Principal devotes his entire time to the business of instruction, and is assisted by two gentlemen and three ladies, so that the number of teachers averages one to ten pupils. As aids in the department of instruction, the Seminary is furnished with an excellent set of Chemical and Philosophical Apparatus, Outline Maps, complete sets of Illustrations in Physiology, Astronomy, &c., together with a valuable Library. To secure health, everything that has a tendency to promote feelings of cheerfulness and contentment is encouraged. The establishment is furnished with a beautiful play-ground, also, with horses and carriages, cold and warm baths, &c. &c.

The Department of Instrumental Music has been for the last two years under the charge of MR. H. WEATHERLY, whose past success is the best possible guaranty for the future.

Mons. Ferdinand Subit, a graduate of the University of Geneveve, a highly accomplished gentleman and scholar, has charge of the French Department. The utmost pains are taken to afford to Young Ladies an opportunity of speaking and understanding the language.

SESSIONS AND VACATIONS.

The year is divided into two sessions of twenty-two weeks each; eleven weeks constituting one quarter. The ensuing session will commence on the last Wednesday of October.

EXPENSES for board, and tuition in all English and Classical studies, fuel, light and washing, $45 per quarter, payable in advance. The only extra charges are for French $3; Music, with use of Instrument, $12; Drawing, $1 50. Pupils furnish their own books, or where parents prefer, the Principal will furnish all books needed in the various classes for $1 per session.

More full information respecting the course of study, domestic arrangements, &c., will be cheerfully furnished on application to the Principal.

Freehold, N. J., June, 1850.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP

TRIUMPHANT.

WILL THE CONSUMPTIVE READ THIS CERTIFICATE?

RAHWAY, N. J., Jan. 7th, 1850.

DR. SCHENCK—Dear Sir:—Prompted by feelings of benevolence, and hoping that others may receive the same benefit that has, by the blessing of God, been conferred upon me, I make the following statement:

About the first of last March, I took cold that settled in my back, causing much lameness; and about the 1st of April, I took another cold, that settled on my lungs, and brought on an attack of the pleurisy. The pleurisy settled in the upper part of my right lung, and formed an abscess that, after much pain, broke in about two months, when I discharged, in twelve hours, about a pint of matter. At this time I had almost a constant fever, with a very high pulse, and frequent chills—a very sore throat, that discharged large quantities of a thick, tough, mucous substance. I was advised by Dr. Craig, an old physician of Rahway, to try SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP; he said he had known great benefit to be derived from it. I accordingly commenced taking it. I had a severe pain under the lower part of my ribs, in my lungs, that continued to increase. My physician gave me digitalis and squills, to keep down the rapid circulation of the blood, from which, I think, I derived much benefit.

My physician, on examination, pronounced my lungs affected a good deal; and, as I continued to get worse all the time, I concluded I would go to Newark, and have my chest thoroughly examined. I accordingly went, and was examined by Drs. Smith and Dougherty, who, after a thorough examination, told me that there were a number of ulcers forming in the lower part, and at the back; but where the abscess was it appeared to be healing. On asking what they thought of my prospects of getting well, they said that when the ulcers came to break, if my strength was not too much exhausted, nature might possibly throw off the disease, and I would recover. (They prescribed digitalis and squills, the same as I had been taking, with some other things I did not try.) This was about the first of July. I had at this time taken four bottles of Syrup. I still continued to get worse, and after taking six bottles, and finding I got no better, I concluded it was doing me no good, and I might as well stop taking it, when I soon began to get worse faster than ever. My appetite, that had been good while I was taking the Syrup, soon left me. The fever increased, night sweats came on, my cough got tight, my feet and ankles swelled, my throat ulcerated, and the pain in my side increased, and I soon gave up all expectation of ever being any better in this world.

After taking no Syrup for four weeks, and when I was so weak that it was with difficulty I could get up, when I was sitting down, to see if I could get any relief from the pain I suffered, and with no expectation of getting well, I again commenced with the Syrup, when I soon regained my appetite, and by the time I had taken two bottles, my cough got free, and I raised freely; the ulcers began to break, and the air passed more freely into the lung, and I began to feel better. And then, to see what would be the effect, I took no Syrup for a week, when my appetite again left me, and I began to get worse again. Finding it was the Syrup that helped me, I took to it in earnest, and soon began to get better. The ulcers kept breaking, one after another, until several had discharged. I could feel the air pass into the lung, and with less pain. They gave new life to me, and contrary to the expectation of every one, I began to get better very fast. I never desponded or gave up, but used all the exercise my strength would allow, and in about forty days from the first of September, I gained twenty-five pounds of flesh; my throat, that had been ulcerated several times, got better, and I would raise from my lungs matter mixed with blood, until it gradually stopped. After using eighteen bottles, I appeared to be almost well; but, unfortunately, taking cold, I was obliged to continue the Syrup, until

I had taken twenty-five bottles. I believe, at the present time, my lungs are entirely healed up. There appears to be a part of my right lung gone; my right breast has shrunk in, or is smaller than the left. I feel as well at the present time as I ever did, but I am not as strong. I would advise all who have a cold or cough, or diseased lungs, to not neglect them, but procure Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, and give it a fair trial; be not discouraged, if, after, like me you take six bottles without relief; for it may be the ulcers are ripening, and will soon break. I believe one bottle will cure an ordinary cold or cough, having known a bad cough to be cured with one bottle.

Dr. Schenck is personally unknown to me, but I shall always feel a lively gratitude to him, for it is with the blessing of God and the use of his Syrup I am now alive.

HENRY E. MUNDY.

N. B. I could procure any number of our most respectable citizens, who would substantiate every word of my statement, but the high reputation of Dr. Craig, one of our oldest physicians, would render it superfluous.

H. E. M.

I, the undersigned, resident of Rahway, N. J., hereby certify, that I am well acquainted with Henry E. Mundy; that I frequently visited him during his illness last summer, and believe him to have been in the last stages of Consumption, and know his statements to be true.

MR. DEACON'S CASE.

DR. J. H. SCHENCK—My Dear Sir:—I am pleased beyond expression to inform you of the extraordinary cure your PULMONIC SYRUP has made in my case. Eight or nine years since, I was attacked with a violent Scrofulous affection. Painful ulcers appeared on my face and neck, which in a short time ate the flesh to the bones. My sufferings were awful. In a short time ulcers came out on my arms and body. The discharges from the ulcers were so offensive, that it was unpleasant for any one to stay in my room. I applied to several physicians, who informed me it could not be cured, except by my undergoing a mercurial treatment, which I was very loath to do. However, my disease continuing, the ulcers increasing in size and number, my health becoming daily impaired, and death inevitable, I consented to the treatment. I took an immense deal of calomel and mercury before the disease appeared to be arrested, all the time suffering tortures, my appetite gone, and my body much emaciated; every joint in my body seemed loosened and much swollen and sore. I was pronounced cured of scrofula, but badly afflicted with a "mercurial disease." My system was in a horrible condition. Every change in the weather would bring upon me pains which were almost beyond endurance. My digestive organs were very much impaired; the ulcers would occasionally re-appear, discharging very offensive matter. I was induced to take "Syrup of Sarsaparilla," which I procured of some of the most popular manufacturers. After taking six or eight bottles the disease would apparently subside; but in the course of three or four weeks it would return, and compel me to resort to the same remedy. The benefit I derived from using the Sarsaparilla was merely temporary, and was costing me a great deal of money, more than I was able to spare. I despaired of ever being cured; my life was a burthen to me; I often felt as though I would rather die at once, than linger on in such awful misery without hope. About eighteen months since, some of my friends informed me of several cures of Scrofula performed by SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, and requested me to try it. I had no confidence in any thing. Mr. Van Doren, Conductor on the Camden and Amboy Railroad, told me of persons cured by your Syrup, and insisted on my giving it a trial. His confidence in it induced me to procure a half dozen of bottles. At the time I was suffering tortures, my limbs much swollen and very painful, the ulcers discharging very offensive matter; nothing but large doses of laudanum enabled me to sleep. Before using the contents of the fifth bottle I experienced a benefit; my digestive organs much improved, and seemed to regain their healthy exercise; my appetite was much increased, and I felt stronger throughout my whole system; the ulcers discharged very freely, and the discharges become less and less offensive. Whilst using the tenth bottle, all the swelling and soreness left me, the discharges subsided, the ulcers commenced healing, and before the bottle was emptied, all appearances of ulcers were removed, and I was permanently cured. I have enjoyed uninterrupted good health for the past fifteen months. I am convinced that Scrofula and mercurial diseases are entirely eradicated from my system; I have not had an ache or pain for more than a year past. Prior to my using the Pulmonic Syrup, there was not a week that I did not suffer day and night more or less the most excruciating pains. I am confident, if I had used your Pulmonic Syrup before using the calomel and mercury, it would have prevented nearly all my suffering, and saved me several hundred dollars. I am now, thank God, a perfectly well man, and attribute it entirely to your "PULMONIC SYRUP."

Wishing you every success in your business, which your truly valuable medicine entitles you to,

I am, respectfully, your obedient servant,

Burlington, N. J., April 2d, 1849.

BIOGRAPHY

DR. J. H. SCHENCK,

The Inventor of Schenck's Respirometer, for examining the Lungs and Chest, and Sole Proprietor of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup.

BIOGRAPHY in this Country has generally been confined to the annals of Statesmen and heroes, whose patriotism and bravery have justly adorned the pages of our national history. This is very proper, so long as it does not cause the historian to overlook the merits of distinguished men in other walks of life. The passion for military glory, or fame won upon the rostrum, induces the American people to devour, with a keen appetite, every line recorded upon these two fruitful themes, because either is calculated to awaken emulous ambition as well as love of country. Indeed such productions are no more than a just tribute to men who have offered their lives a willing sacrifice in defence of the liberties we now enjoy; nor is it more than we owe to those sages who have guarded the national honor, in our various conventional bodies, with more than herculean vigor, where they have so often encountered and overcome threaten-g dangers. We have, however, some exceptions to this custom in Franklin, Fulton, Rittenhouse and others; men whose scientific researches have largely contributed to place this country high in the niche of fame, and who have stoutly contended for laurels, freely lavished upon the world-renowned philosophers of Europe. But while we are willing to accord the meed of praise justly due these great men, we have others daily rising from obscurity in this age of progress, who, for usefulness and high-toned philanthropy, are equally entitled to the favorable consideration of a discriminating public.

Among others, we would name Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, who forms the subject of this narrative. Dr. Schenck, the inventor and proprietor of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, is the son of the late Courtland Schenck, an old resident of Burlington county, N. J. He was born on the 6th day of May, 1811, in Evesham township, near Moorestown, where he resided till the age of fifteen, when he removed to Philadelphia for the purpose of learning a trade. Both of his parents died with Consumption, which appears to have been a constitutional disease with his father's family. All of his brothers and sisters died early of the same disease, not one of them reaching the age of twenty. Thus left, the last of his family, he naturally felt some alarm, as one after another was consigned to the silent tomb by this fell destroyer. The fact that he had chosen a sedentary business did not lessen them; and he pursued a calling assiduously, that was daily calculated to engender and facilitate this, to him, hereditary terror. Time wore on, however, and he began to flatter himself that he at least would prove an exception, until he approached the age of 19, when a slight cold warned him to watchfulness. At first, he treated it with the usual simple remedies generally applied in such cases; but finding it rapidly growing worse, he applied to the late celebrated Dr. Parish, who attended him for about a year. All that medical skill could suggest, blended with the long experience of that distinguished physician, were resorted to in vain. He grew worse every day, until he was finally given up as incurably fixed in Consumption. Believing himself soon destined to follow his unfortunate relatives, he gave up to die, desiring to realize but one wish on earth, that of breathing his last in the home of his childhood. He embraced the opportunity during one of those temporary reactions so peculiar to this disease, to take his departure; but he had only gone over a small portion of even this short journey, ere he found himself lacking the strength to endure it. The consequence was, he reached home with extreme difficulty, and utterly prostrated. Dr. Thornton, of Moorestown, who attended his father in his last illness, was speedily summoned, who informed him his case was hopeless, and urged him to prepare for death, as a few days must prove the utmost limit of his life. But, clinging to hope with that tenacity so peculiar to the consumptive, he continued to use the prescription of Dr. Parrish, his former physician; and against the predictions of all who saw him, he continued to linger, though without any change for the better.

Just in that state when a man will grasp at any one of the numerous remedies which rumor sends abroad, he heard of a preparation made by an old Indian woman in the neighborhood, and used it as directed. Finding partial relief from its use, he somewhat modified it by adding a portion of Dr. Parrish's prescription, which seemed to afford more relief. Continuing the use of this medicine, and still adding valuable ingredients, his experiments were crowned with entire success, and he began to mend rapidly. In three months after he commenced this medicine, he was considered a sound man, although extremely delicate, yet regaining flesh and strength rapidly. The neighbors viewed him with astonishment, and a number from some distance came, out of curiosity, to see one who had risen, as it were, from the grave. In order to give the reader a correct idea of the peculiar nature of the Doctor's affliction, we submit the following extract from "Schenck's Treatise on Consumption," giving a truthful picture of the origin and progress of the disease, as certified by many respectable inhabitants in the immediate neighborhood.

"In the year 1830, the subscriber, a resident of this City, by exposure, contracted a heavy cold, which, settling upon his lungs, terminated in a confirmed case of PULMONARY CONSUMPTION. I was at this time emaciated, very feeble, had a distressing cough, raising of blood and phlegm, pain in my breast, hectic fever, night sweats, and appeared to be rapidly declining, so much so, that my physicians and friends utterly despaired of my recovery. Numerous individuals, at present residents of this city, can testify that my case presented a hopeless appearance, and soon expected to see me consigned to the tomb. In accordance with my physician's directions, I left the city, and after I arrived in the country, I became worse, confined entirely to my bed, and failing rapidly. When all hope of ever getting well had gone, I was strongly recommended to use a Syrup made from an old Indian receipt, which succeeded in effectually curing me. I persevered in the use of the medicine for several weeks—when my disease became ripe, it broke, and I brought up large quantities of yellow matter, mixed with clotted blood, and, in about three months afterwards, my disease was entirely removed, and I felt well, excepting some debility. Fearing to return to the city, I removed to Flemington, New Jersey, where many persons having heard of my astonishing cure, applied to me for the medicine, and a number of equally remarkable cures were made by the use of it in that section of the country. It soon acquired a great reputation, and the demand for it increased so rapidly that I felt constrained to give my whole attention to its manufacture and sale, but the demand for it still increasing, I found great inconvenience in supplying the distant orders—I therefore removed to the city of Philadelphia, where the medicine has been growing in reputation and demand since that time."

Creating, as it did, a sensation second to that only of a miracle, he was waited upon by many similarly afflicted, to whom he gave the Syrup with the same beneficial results. Not only Consumption, but severe Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Liver Complaint and Scrofulous affections, all yielded to its healing properties. In fact, such was the notoriety of this medicine, that eminent practising physicians had their attention drawn toward the rising reputation of the Pulmonic Syrup, from having witnessed its curative powers, in cases which they had deemed incurable, and freely extended the hand of friendship and encouragement to Dr. Schenck, by introducing his medicine to the public, and using it in their daily practice. Thus, by turning his attention solely to the cure of Consumption, he daily improved his medicine until it acquired a name second to none in the Union. But having reached the desired perfection in every ingredient did not satisfy the Doctor. He applied himself to the study of the various diseases, and more particularly the peculiar nature and pathological condition of the lungs. His every day practice, added to an energetic application to his studies, soon fitted him for that quick conception, and unerring comprehension of diseased lungs, which has placed him in the front rank of his profession; and, in this department, far ahead of his competitors for successful treatment.

Nor is the wide spread fame of Dr. Schenck confined to this subject alone. Meeting with difficulty in ascertaining the precise locality of the disease, by the use of the ordinary Stethoscope, he set about the invention of an instrument better adapted to the purpose. Although it cost him both time and money, sufficient to discourage many, yet by that indomitable perseverance, which has literally stamped him the architect of his own fortunes, he has, finally, succeeded in presenting to the scientific world, one of the most complete instruments, which he calls his Respirometer, that human ingenuity could invent. Such is the power of his Respirometer, in magnifying sounds, that the most inexperienced student cannot fail to ascertain the true locality of the affected parts. Already many distinguished physicians have examined it, and congratulated the Doctor upon this great acquisition to the profession. Possessing these facilities in arresting a disease that has heretofore been pronounced incurable, and daily presenting to the world incontestible evidence of this success, he has acquired a practice in our larger cities that keeps him alternately migrating from Philadelphia to New York, Boston, Baltimore, &c.

In his recent visits to Boston, he examined the lungs of an incredible number of patients, and gave entire satisfaction. He is forced to travel two-thirds of his time, in order to meet the many pressing demands upon his services; while his invaluable medicine now constitutes a staple article in the principal towns of the United States.

The Doctor's experience has confirmed him in the opinion, that liver complaint and the sympathetic affection of the bronchia are too often mistaken by the faculty, for pulmonary consumption; hence, the necessity of a personal examination of the patient with his Respirometer. Thus, by a practical test of the affected parts, he satisfies himself, as well as the sufferer, of the true locality and nature of the disease. Few, perhaps, would deny themselves this opportunity to be relieved of agonizing suspense, when it only costs the small sum of three dollars. As to professional advice, the Doctor gives it without charge.

The writer is aware of the prevailing prejudice against all medicines, not emanating immediately from the Pharmaceutical profession; and this objection to the Pulmonic Syrup, if it exists at all, is removed by the late Dr. Parish, whose invaluable prescription constitutes a large share of its ingredients. Added to this, is Dr. Schenck's long and arduous study of Pulmonary diseases, which must satisfy the reader, that its merits are based upon all that the science of medicine or professional experience could suggest. If, however, a doubt be entertained by any, the innumerable testimonials of its healing properties, which are daily sent forth, from all quarters of the Union, by persons whose gratitude prompts them to the performance of a simple act of justice, must satisfy the most incredulous.

In the walks of private life, Dr. Schenck is highly esteemed for gentlemanly demeanor and urbanity of manners. Frank and candid in his intercourse with the afflicted, he never inspires false hopes. The sufferer is plainly told his real condition, and the chances of recovery portrayed in truthful language; for he too often meets with cases where the constitution has been already injured past recovery, by the use of deleterious medicines, and his immense business places him beyond the temptation of deceiving any. This is one of the rare instances of success which has crowned the efforts of untiring perseverance, resulting in lasting benefit to the whole human race. Success attend him.
